AIRMAN KILLED IN BENDIX TOUR CRASH

THREE EMERGE AS CHOICES OF NATIONAL G O P

Landon, Borah, Knox Believed Favor to Gain 1936 Nomination

HOOVER IS ENIGMA

Convention of 1920 Recalled By Leaders

WASHINGTON, Aug. 0— Out of the mists of Republican uncertainty and confusion there appear to be emerging three men who in the end may be battling it out for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

They are:

Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas, who has performed the political miracles of reducing expenditures and taxes when all about him were increasing their's, and of getting himself elected and re-elected in the midst of two Democratic landslides.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, long the lone wolf of Republican politics, strong in the west, weak in the east, getting along in years, but still full of youthful fire.

Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, the most active of all the numerous possibilities, who is perfecting perhaps the most effective delegate organization of them all.

Many Mentioned

Behind these three, the favorite son and other possibilities string out in a seemingly endless row—Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, Senator Dickinson of Iowa, Senator Steiwer of Oregon, Rep. Hamilton Fish of New York, et cetera.

To many observers the Republican convention of 1936, now only ten months away, is stacking up at this early date as somewhat reminiscent of the famous convention of 1920. In that year, three stalwarts, Lowden, Wood and Johnson, battled themselves into deadlock and defeat, with the relatively obscure Warren G. Harding coming along at the last moment to gallop off with the nomination and certain election. It may or may not be that history will repeat itself. Maybe not, for all Republican factions are agreed, even this early, that their sole hope for victory next year lies in unity, not division, such as might conceivably follow a bitterly contested convention.

Hoover Is Question

The biggest question mark in the Republican equation is the attitude of Herbert Hoover. Ostensibly and publicly, he is not a candidate. Privately his friends assert he is "itching" for another try at the man who in 1932 sent him into retirement as the worst defeated presidential candidate in history. Nothwithstanding his "itch," his friends say he will not put himself forward as a candidate; that he wants to run, but only if the nomination comes to him on a platter. He wants, they say, to be drafted. It is exceedingly unlikely he will be.

NEWS MEN GUESTS TODAY AT BIG FAIR

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30—Cloudy overcast skies were on hand today as State Fair officials played host to Ohio newspapermen who were given the privilege of the grounds after lunching with Agriculture Director Earl Hanefeld and Fair Manager W. W. Ellenwood.

Early morning visitors flocked to the race track on the grounds where junior fair exhibitors held a flying contest for model airplanes.

The fisheries building has attracted a crowd estimated between 50,000 and 60,000 persons to watch exhibits prepared by the state conservation department. Moving pictures of game management and the state's method of bass and game propagation were displayed.

A complete sellout of all Fair features was reported early yesterday when an estimated gathering of 100,000 taxed the grounds.

Gov. Martin L. Davey and his cabinet made a personal tour of the Fair in conjunction with "Governor's Day." The Governor officiated at the cutting of a huge cake during a luncheon in his honor and then witnessed the running of the annual "Governor's Race."

Berrodin Asks Higher Pension

Huey's Nemesis?

Representative Granfield

In the last moments of the congressional session, a bill was put over quietly in the house to investigate Senator Huey Long's "dictatorship" in Louisiana. Representative William D. Granfield, above, Democrat, of Massachusetts, who introduced the resolution, has been named chairman of the committee of three Democrats and two Republicans.

Abolition Of County Boards and Assurance of Funds Also Asked Today

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30— Ohio should increase the maximum old age pension from $25 to $30, provide sufficient funds to care for an ever-mounting pension roll expected to reach 100,000 by December, and abolish the county pension boards, Henry J. Berrodin, Akron, chief of the state division of aid for the aged, told the joint legislative taxation committee today.

Berrodin, pleading with the committee to prepare legislation amending the present pension laws for consideration of the special session of the legislature this fall, warned committee members:

"You must provide the money—it is a serious problem."

Six Millions Needed

Approximately $6,000,000 is needed for pensions during the remainder of the year. Committee members hope to enact legislation enabling Ohio to share in the federal government's social security program as soon as federal funds are provided for the program.

Berrodin, who appealed to the committee to change existing pension laws to abolish entirely the local boards in counties, composed of county commissioners, or set up new boards, dominated by representatives of the state division.

"The state division is held responsible for cost, number of recipients. Since we are responsible we should have something to say about expenditures."

Follow Disputes

His pleas for abolishing the county boards followed weeks of wrangling with antagonistic county officials. Berrodin, who has been charged with "playing politics" in appointment of employes to county units, has been blocked by these boards in several attempts to select appointees.

SHERRILL HITS THREE BOARDS

Report Handed to Governor Would End Cosmetology, Barber, Housing.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30—Recommending that three state boards be abolished and another transferred to a state department, the Ohio Government Survey committee today told Gov. Martin L. Davey how to save $12,719 more a year on Ohio's governmental bill.

The committee urged Davey to abolish the state board of cosmetology, state board of barber examiners and the state board of housing and to transfer the state water conservation board to the department of public works.

Total savings that would result from these changes are reduced by virtue of the fact that the committee estimates fee revenues collected by the board of cosmetology and barber examiners totals $123,500 a year.

The board of housing should be eliminated, the survey group suggests, because the federal housing administration has taken over its duties.

The Ohio State planning board should be continued only as long as necessary to co-ordinate federal projects.

The state board of examiners or architects is "satisfactory", as is the state board of registration for professional engineers and surveyors, the committee declared.

An increase in the field staff of the Ohio State medical board from two to three is urged, but the committee points out: "operation of the long-established Ohio State Medical Board is generally satisfactory."

STATE DISCREDITS 'LIVE BABY' STORY

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 30—Prosecution forces today dampened hopes of Bruno Richard Hauptmann that the convicted Lindbergh baby slayer might wage a new battle to escape the death chair through the resemblance of a baby boy, adopted by a Long Island couple, to the kidnaped son of America's famous flyer.

Fingerprints of Baby Lindbergh, taken from objects in the nursery from where the infant was stolen, are in state police files it was revealed coincident with expression of prosecution willingness to have those prints compared with prints of the Long Island baby.

Further cold water was poured on defense hopes with the declaration of Capt. John J. Lamb of the New Jersey state police that the Long Island tot had been investigated soon after the kidnaping and that it had been established at that time that the infant was not the missing Lindbergh baby.

SIGNS WARN FAIR VISITORS OF TRAP

KIRKERSVILLE, Aug. 30—Visitors enroute to and from the State fair through this village's alleged speed trap on U. S. route 40 today were receiving the best attention in a novel way against arrest for speeding.

Two transients—Mock Mick and Albert Johnson—are stationed at the portals of Kirkersville, each carrying a large sign which reads:

"Slow—speed cop ¼ mile."

The transients revealed that a garage man near the village pays them $1 per day and board for warning motorists. Despite threats of arrest, Mick and Johnson seem to enjoy their good samaritan tasks.

WILL CONTEST RULING HEARD

Judge Bell Decidse Mary E. Corkwell Meant Half-Brothers, Sisters, Too.

A decision in a will case of interest to many Pickaway countians was handed downThursday in London by Judge James F. Bell of Madison-co common pleas court.

The case was that of Charles P. Corkwell, as executor, against Eliza Williams and others, instituted to construe the will of Mary J. Corkwell, late of Mt. Sterling.

The question before the court was whether the testatrix by the use of the term brothers and sisters in her will and codicils intended to include as beneficiaries half brothers and sisters as well as full brothers and sisters. Mrs. Corkwell's father was married twice and there were two sets of children. The decision of the court was the term brothers and sisters included both groups.

Attorney Charles H. May represented the plaintiff. One group of heirs was represented by Attorneys Frank Raymond and C. L. Corkwell, Columbus, and the other group by Gerhardt and Gerhardt, Deane M. Richmond and Clark Wickenseimer.

The estate is worth about $25,000.

DAVID INGALLS HURT

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30.—David S. Ingalls, former assistant secretary of the navy in charge of aeronautics, today was resting at his home here with a broken collar bone received when his polo pony slipped and fell during a practice match.

It was the third time in the last four years that Ingalls has suffered a broken collar bone while playing polo. After being treated at Lakeside hospital, he was taken to his home.

Bandits Escape With Huge Loot

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30 — State highway patrolmen today were searching for two bandits who staged a daring daylight hold-up late yesterday of a pair of bank messengers at Springfield, O., and escaped with $50,000 in new currency being delivered to the First National Bank and Trust Co.

The robbery occurred in front of the Springfield postoffice with several witnesses look-on in fear as one bandit covered them with a machine gun while the other "relieved the bank messengers of their money satchel.

Involved in Others

The robbers, believed to be the same pair which staged a similar successful hold-up on a North Baltimore, O., bank several days ago and escaped with some $4,500 and followed this with robberies in Madison-co which netted them $212 and money order blanks and others in Massillon, Canton and other cities in the same territory, escaped in a maroon colored Ford V-8 coupe bearing Ohio license tags 6133-F or 631-M and headed toward Toledo also in the immediate territory of the previous hold-ups.

License tags 6133-F were issued to Howard Glenn Aldrich, Toledo, while 631-M belong to Leonard Bellener, Maumee. Inasmuch as neither Bellener's nor Aldrich's car nor tags were missing, state highway patrol officials intimated the license plates used by the bandits were counterfeits.

Previous to the Springfield hold-up, two bandits, strongly resembling the hunted duo, successfully held-up a Dayton filling station attendant and escaped with an unknown amount of cash. Despite the fact the Dayton robbers were driving a Plymouth coach, local authorities believed they were the same pair who "pulled" the Clarkco "job," 27 miles northeast of there.

FLOOD WATER STRIKES WEST

New Mexico Residents Forced to Flee; Homes Washed From Foundations.

LAS CRUCES, N. M., Aug. 30.—Scores of townspeople were forced to leave their homes today when flood waters roared through Las Cruces as the heaviest rainstorm in 30 years fell over this section.

Damage to property in the city had run into thousands of dollars this morning. Adobe houses in the poorer residential section crumbled and fell away under the torrential rainfall and rising water.

The rain started to fall at 11:00 o'clock last night and continued to come down in torrents this morning.

Flooded streams and arroyas in the mesa land east of Las Cruces furnished a threat of a flood of greater proportions when the crest of the water reached here.

TRINIDAD, Colo., Aug. 30.—Heavy rains between Raton and Las Vegas, N. M., resulted today in delay of passenger traffic over the Santa Fe railroad when trains were held up at Las Vegas and Albuquerque.

Local railroad officials said reports that stretches of tracks had been washed out were erroneous and that normal traffic would be resumed later in the day.

Colorado and southern trains were arriving in Colorado behind schedule because of a detour between Amearillo and Dalhart, Tex., caused by a washout between the two towns yesterday.

Wall of Floodwater Drown Four in Bus

TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 30—Four dead and three injured today was the toll of a cloudburst which sent an 8-foot wall of water rushing down a mountainside near here yesterday to wreck a transcontinental bus.

The bus, carrying 27 passengers and a crew of two, was carried more than 75 feet by the raging torrent before it was hurled against a telephone pole.

The dead are: Joe N. Sabline, 60, Chicago; Mary Dosh, 28, and Reyon Dosh, 11, Tucson, Ariz., and John J. Real, Tulsa, Okla.

800 SIGN TO REPAIR WALKS

Cost Computed by Justus; Program to Be Placed Under WPA Setup.

Approximately 800 residents have signed to take part in Circleville's sidewalk project to be listed under the WPA.

Under the program 109,190 square feet of concrete sidewalks will be laid, 133,618 square feet of brick sidewalks reconstructed, and 10,395 lineal feet of curb and gutter installed.

Tabulation of the project was completed Thursday evening by Service Director William M. Justus after completion of a city-wide survey. Mr. Justus said the project would be listed with WPA officials as soon as his department complete a labor schedule for the improvements.

The material cost to property owners for concrete sidewalks will be 8½ cents per square foot and 25 cents per lineal foot for curb and gutter. The reconstruction of brick sidewalks would come entirely under WPA labor with no cost to property owners.

CECIL ALLEN, LAST TO TAKE OFF, VICTIM AS PLANE FALLS

Cold Rain, Report of Tragedy Reduces Size of Crowd as Air Races Open; Amelia Earhart Putnam, Late Entry, First to Leave for East.

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 30—Death and a chilling downpour of rain joined hands today to set a somber opening schedule for the 1935 National Air Races.

Under the rambling wooden stands which held a handful of drenched spectators, that part of the aviation coterie which has arrived to participate in the four-day meet discussed in subdued tones of the tragic end of Cecil Allen in the Bendix take-off at Los Angeles.

A lowering leaden sky sent down a stinging drizzle and brought from race officials that prediction that the intrepid pilots winging across the nation in the classic which produced a new transcontinental record last year might be unable to locate the airport.

Joins Air Tour

Amelia Earhart Putnam

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30—Less than five minutes after he took off from Union Air terminal here, the last plane to start in the $10,000 Bendix trophy air dash to Cleveland, Cecil Allen, 31, plunged to his death in a plowed field today.

The tricky GeeBee racing plane, with which Allen had trouble before the takeoff, was completely demolished and wreckage was strewn over an area of more than 300 yards.

Jammed in Wreck

Allen's body was jammed in the wreckage and considerable difficulty was experienced in extracting it.

Nearby residents who heard the crash declared Allen apparently was trying to return to the field he had just left when the crackup occurred, and seeing he could not make it attempted to land on a paved highway.

Indications showed the pilot missed the paved highway and possible safety by less than 100 yards.

The plane, which had a landing speed said to have been well in excess of 200 miles an hour, struck the plowed field and careened forward for more than 300 yards, scattering wreckage and splattering gasoline from the filled fuel tanks over the entire area.

There was no explosion or fire, although the plane struck with such terrific force it was first reported it had exploded.

Repaired Plane

Allen got away from the airport at 5:18 a. m., after spending almost an hour making repairs to his gasoline filter and fuel system.

On the takeoff the ship careened crazily as it sped down the runaway at better than 200 miles an hour. Airport attendants ordered ambulances and fire fighting equipment to stand by but Allen succeeded in getting off the ground.

Once in the air the plane continued to waver, but finally Allen seemed to gather speed and darted away. It was only a few minutes later the crash occurred.

Ambulances and fire fighting equipment immediately was rushed to the scene.

Allen only recently returned to active flying after an attempt with Don Moyle to fly the Pacific

PRICE LEVEL CLIMBS HIGH

Highest in Five Years Reports Labor Department; Food, Farm Goods Up.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The present level of wholesale commodity prices is the highest that has been reached during the past five years and shows a net gain of nearly four percent since Jan. 1, the bureau of statistics of the labor department announced today.

"The general strengthening of prices is shown by the fact that no group registered a decline over the week period," the bureau said. "Of the ten commodity groups covered four remained unchanged from the level of the preceding week and six showed advances of varying degrees.

"The groups recording an average rise were farm products, foods, hides and leather products, textile products, metals and metal products, and chemicals and drugs."

Compared with the corresponding week of last year, foods advanced 14 per cent, and farm products rose 12.4 per cent to register the largest increases.

OHIO LEADERS SEEK AID FOR THEIR CITIES

Need For Government Funds Stressed; Lorain Man Is Named President.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30—The needs of municipal, county and township governments for funds next year, if governmental operations are not to disintegrate, were stressed today as officials from all parts of the state formed a new organization to present the problems to the Governor and the Legislature.

The new organization, which received its first impetus in Lorain-co will be called the Ohio association of County, Municipal and Township governments. More than 20 counties were represented at the meeting, and the cooperation of officials from non-attending counties was urged. County solocitors, auditors, treasurers, surveyors, mayors and city managers, fire and police chiefs associations, and other governmental groups were represented at the gathering of over 50 officials.

Frank Ayers, city auditor of Lorain, was elected president of the group, and Joseph Lutz, Dayton, Montgomery-co auditor, was named vice president. Phillip Goldstagle, deputy auditor in Columbus, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Needs Described

The needs of local governments were described as "critical" by Mayor Henry Worley, of Columbus, president of the League of Ohio Municipalities. In offering the cooperation of Municipalities League to the new group, he urged a united front "if all local governments are not to cease operations next year." "The Legislature must allocate from existing taxes or from new taxes sufficient sums to keep these governments going. Present revenue is insufficient," he said.

The activities of the school group in obtaining 60 per cent of sales tax revenue were cited as leaving insufficient money from that form of taxation for local governments.

A short time ago, the Columbus News Service carried a dispatch from Columbus showing that local government funds, which had anticipated in all redistributions of about $15,000,000 from sales tax collections, would be fortunate if they realized about 50 per cent of their expectations.

A committee to call on the Governor and outline the problems was named. The committee also will urge the Governor to include the tax problems in his call for the first special session of the Legislature, anticipated about the middle of September.

Committee Listed

The committee is comprised of Mayor Worley, chairman; E. E. Hagerman, Dayton, representing the Municipal Finance Officers' Association; David A. Shadle, Columbus, representing county commissioners; J. C. Mong, Akron, representing county auditors; H. G. Sours, of Akron, representing city solicitors' organization; W. J. Wright, Lorain county treasurer, representing county treasurers; W. E. Latimer, Lorain, representing Ohio Fire Fighters' Association and Edward J. Green, Steubenville, representing Ohio Police and Firemen Relief Association.

It was believed the committee will not attempt to urge any new forms of taxation or present any program on that line, but rather draw up a complete statement of the needs of local governments and submit that to the Legislature for the necessary and obvious action.

Balbo Hears Cheers on Return as Aide to Duce

Man Made Governor of Libya After His Success on Mass Flight to U. S. to be Active in Abysinnian War.

BOLZANO, Italy, Aug. 30—Cries of "Viva Balbo!" ran through Italian streets today for the first time in two years as Air Marshall Italo Balbo, Italy's "forgotten man," suddenly emerged from African obscurity to assume a leading role in his country's war plans.

Either as coordinator of Italy's African air force or head of a division of Tripolitan warriers, the famous transAtlantic flyer is to be restored to a high place in the war councils of Premier Benito Mussolini, who "kicked Balbo upstairs" into the governorship of Libya.

At Il Duce's side once more, Balbo arrived at the scene of the Italian army maneuvers here yesterday following inspection of the Rome-Paris air route. Tomorrow he is expected to join his family in Switzerland to recuperate from an attack of tropical fever before he returns to Libya.

Aides in Service

Twenty-three of the planes that Balbo guided to America — he started in the summer of 1933 with 25—are still it Italy in serviceable condition, but would be of little use in African service, since they are seaplanes. Most of the officers who flew to Chicago with him, however, have already been pressed into active service for the Abyssinian campaign.
-startk

Because of Liby'a important position next to Egypt, Balbo may be required to stay there and watch British moves, but some of his colonial troops are likely to be called upon to pay an old debt to Eritrea. In 1911-12 Eritrean troops saved the day for Italy against the Turks in Tripolitania.

Balboa was Mussolini's aviation minister when he led the trans-Atlantic flight two years ago, and when he returned, triumphant, he was made an air marshal, the highest rank in Italy's air force.

So great was Balbo's popularity then that it threatened to overshadow Il Duce's. So Mussolini "promoted" Balbo to the governorship of Libya, took over the air portfolio himself, and named Giuseppi Valle as his undersecretary for air. Since then the blackbearded Balbo has been far removed from public attention.

GIANT TOMATOES

ALLENTOWN, Pa.—Two-and-a-half-pound tomatoes on eight-foot vines is the horticultural record of Charles Schaff, 18, of this city. Schaff produced them in a back-yard garden from seed after following instructions found in a Department of Agriculture pamphlet two years ago. He has 40 plants.

HOT DOGS BARRED

GLOUCESTER, Mass. — Brier's Neckers don't want hot dogs. So set against the national delicacy are they that they obtained an injunction forbidding Arthur D. Widger from "despoiling" their exclusive summer playground with a hot dog stand. The land is "residential only" until 1935.

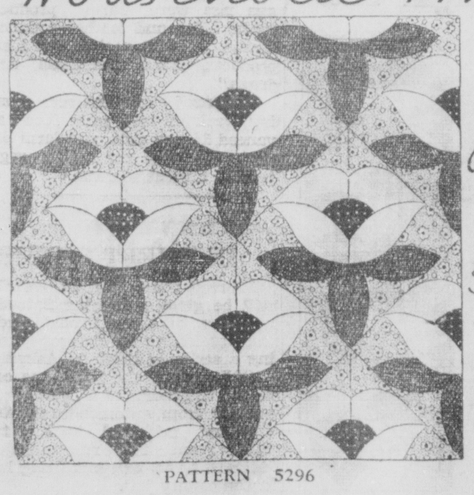
Make This Heirloom Quilt

Flower of Spring



PATTERN 5296

"How fresh and lovely!" would be your instant comment, if you saw this quilt, Flower of Spring, in color. The flower that inspired the design is the anemone, and though it may grow in our garden in spring, still we cherish its beauty all year round. The quilt-maker who has captured it in this design makes this possible for us. Make the flower of white, peach, pale yellow or rose on a light green or blue background—and you'll have a color picture that will prove an unending delight. Even in the making, this quilt is a joy—the block is so easy to piece!

In pattern 5296 you will find the Block Chart, an illustration for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for a single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main-st, Circleville, O.

WABASH RAILMEN STRIKE SATURDAY

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30—Unless the government intervenes employes of the Wabash Railway company will strike at 6:30 tomorrow morning.

The strike order was issued here yesterday after "an overwhelming" strike vote cast by 4500 employes.

Unions participating are the brotherhoods of locoomtive engineers, of locomotive fieremen and enginemen and of railroad trainmen, and the order of railway conductors.

The Ann Arbor railway, a Wabash subsidiary, is also affected.

Employes charge the Wabash cut pay without negotiating with employes, and ignored the findings of the National Railway Adjustment board relative to the disagreement, suggesting that the disputes be referred to the courts.

S. E. Cotter, chief operating officer of the road, declared today: "We won't shut down the railroad."

He said he would not ask federal intervention.

Special Music On Camp Meet Program

The Gross band of Chicago, Ill., a musical organization comprised of 14 members will play at the Mount of Praise the remainder of the camp meeting sessions this week. Besides being an instrumental organization they are also gospel singers.

An unusual musical treat was presented at the service Thursday night. Wilmos Cschy, a former concert violinist, presented a number of selections accompanied by Mrs. Cschy, pianist. Mr. Cschy told members he was born and educated in Hungary and the violin on which he played was 250 years old.

The evangelistic services Thursday evening were in charge of Rev. Charles Slater. Rev. T. M. Anderson of Wilmore, Ky., one of the evangelists, was called to his home Thursday because of the serious illness of his son. He plans to return to the camp grounds Sunday for the concluding service.

Rev. E. H. Stillion will preach at 11 a. m. and 8:15 p. m. Saturday and Sunday. Rev. Charles Slater will preach at the afternoon services at 2:30 o'clock.

YOUNG STEER GONE FROM FAIR STALL

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30.—Nine hundred pounds of beef in the form of a young steer went astray at the Ohio State fair grounds yesterday afternoon and created not only a commotion of sorts but just about brought tears to the eyes of a youthful exhibitor.

John Evans of Woodstock had brought his pet steer to the fair for exhibition. As he was going on to Washington, he left the steer in care of Hartsel Besgrove, of Milford Center, whose entry also occupied a nearby stall at the grounds.

Yesterday afternoon, Hartsel returned to the stalls, found his own steer reposing quietly, but the other animal left in his charge was gone. All that was left was the halter. The youngster reported the loss to officials in a voice choking with emotion. As yet, no sign of the missing animal has been found.

AMANDA

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Scholl of Owensboro, Ky., have returned to their home after spending their vacation with relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Alten and family of Columbus visited Monday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hedges.

The Young People's Sunday school class of the M. E. church held its annual picnic at the home of Misses Mildred and Edith Spung. Twenty members enjoyed the outing.

Mrs. Ray Hyatt and children, Ann and John Sidney, of Columbus, are the house guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Merz.

Miss Virginia Myers has returned to Columbus after spending a few days with her aunt, Mrs. Edward Phillips and family.

Franklin Williamson, of Lancaster, and Virgil and Earl Hedges are spending this week at Indian lake. Earl Hedges will also visit his aunt, Mrs. John Ellis and family of Marseilles.

Carl Merz and Leo Stiles are spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Rothwell of Columbus and attending the state fair.

Plans are being completed for the annual band social to be held Saturday, Aug. 31, starting at 5 o'clock. The committee in charge assures those who plan to attend that there will be plenty of fried chicken. This will be the last concert of the season and the last time Arnold Hoffman, the bandmaster, will be in charge as he is leaving for his new assignment near Akron. The new bandmaster, Brooks Franks of Wooster, an Ohio University graduate, will also be at this concert.

The annual reunion of the Waites family was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Waites, east of Amanda. A basket dinner was served under a large tent to over 100 relatives from various towns including Bedford, Ind., Mt. Orab, Groveport, Canal Winchester, Ashville and Bryan.

CECIL ALLEN

nonstop from Japan to the United States in 1931.

Forced Down Before

On that hazardous flight Allen was near death when the plane in which he was flying with Moyle from Boboshiro beach in Japan, was forced down on the lonely Aleutian islands by fuel trouble—the same trouble which is believed to have caused his death today.

Allen's plane plunged into a plowed field, carrying its pilot to instant death, six other men and two women—the premier aviators of the United States—were speeding over the western mountains in the Bendix trophy race.

Near-disaster marked the start of two other contestants in the race.

Two Near Crashes

Col. Roscoe Turner, holder of the transcontinental record of 10 hours and 2 minutes, lifted his rebuilt Wedell-Williams racer from the ground after a false start had sent chills racing down the spines of more than 10,000 people gathered to witness the start of the race.

A few minutes Jacqueline Cochran, New York sportswoman flyer, was so near disaster as her plane wobbled near the end of the runway, that ambulances and fire equipment was rushed onto the field before she succeeded in lifting her ship from the ground.

While Allen was plunging to his death, Amelia Earhart Putnam, who with Paul Mantz as co-pilot was the first to leave here in the dash eastward, was landing at Albuquerque, N. M., to refuel. Radio reports said she set her ship down there at 5:41 a. m., PST.

At 6:40 a. m., the radio station at the field told of the landing of Miss Cochran at Kingman, Ariz. No details were given and airport attendants were at a loss to explain the landing because Miss Cochran, with 590 gallons of gasoline, had intended to fly nonstop to Cleveland and possibly to New York.

Fog Causes Delay

Fog had added to the hazards of the start of the race. After Miss Earhart, Roy Hunt and Benny Howard had gotten away, the fog swept in from the ocean, shortly after 2:10 a. m., and the remaining planes were held grounded for more than an hour. It was not until 3:40 that Royal Leonard lifted his ship into the air.

Turner followed Leonard, and then in quick order Russell Thaw, Earl Ortman and Mrs. Cochran took the air.

In addition to the prize of $10,000 to be awarded for the winner of the dash to Cleveland, Bendix has posted an additional $2,500 to the pilot who succeeds in bettering Turner's record to New York.

To win this prize, an official recognition of a new record, the distance from coast to coast must be flown in 9 hours and 44 minutes or better.

Before she left the field here Mrs. Putnam declared she was not competing for any of the cash awards at stake, but declared she did hope to establish a new record.

MONROE TWP.

The Five Points ball team won another game Sunday, when it handed the Adelphi team the short end of a 11 to 5 count. The boys will play the Columbus Braves next Sunday on the home ground. Sollars and Friend were the batteries for the Five Pointers. This is seven victories out of nine games.

Kenneth Walters had a tonsil operation last week.

Several from here are attending the camp meeting at Circleville.

Robert Dick and Frederick McCoy left last week for several weeks stay up in Michigan and Canada.

Miss Medrith Terflinger has been on the sick list, but is much better at this time.

The Davis reunion will be held Monday Sept. 2nd at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Alkire in Five Points.

The Long reunion will be held at the home of Mrs. Emma Long near Darbyville Sunday Sept. 1st.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Christian church will meet next Wednesday Sept. 4th at the hall. All members are urged to be present as important business is on hand.

Miss Margaret Dick of Columbus spent the weekend at her home near Five Points.

School begins Monday Sept. 2nd.

Europe Pays Homage to Young Queen Of Belgians, Victim of Motor Wreck

BRUSSELS, Aug. 30.—The gray walls of Belgium's royal palace echoed again to the sobs and shuffling feet of thousands of mourners as the covered coffin of Queen Astrid lay today in the "Salon of the Thinker," where homage was paid to King Albert only 18 months ago.

All through the night the crushed body of the Queen was borne by express train from Lake Lucerne, Switzerland, on whose shores her 29 years of life ended in an automobile crash yesterday.

King Leopold, her husband, his arm and head swathed in bandages, and Paul Van Zeeland, young premier of Belgium, rode in the second car of the funeral train.

Stations Crowded

Every station platform as the express flashed by down the Rhine valley and through Luxembourg was crowded with peasants. Cabinet ministers joined the train when it entered Belgian soil at Arlon, and then wound through the Ardennes mountains, where the beloved Albert fell to his death.

The great square in front of north station in Brussels was packed with grieving subjects when the black-draped train ground to a halt. Army generals carried the coffin to an automobile hearse, and the dead Queen was driven slowly through the streets lined with soldiers and jammed with civilians to the palace that had been her home since she and Leopold were married nine years ago.

King Leopold had left the train at a suburban station, hurrying to the palace ahead of the funeral cortege to change into formal clothes to meet the coffin.

King Leopold was left for half an hour in solitary mourning with Astrid. The coffin was opened at his request, but closed again when he left.

It was understood that the queen's head was bandaged, just as King Albert's had been, but her face was unmarked.

Four generals were then stationed around the bier. Colors of Belgium, Switzerland, and Astrid's homeland, Sweden, were folded over the casket, candles lighted, and masses of flowers crowded around the room.

The queen's ladies in waiting filed through the salon first, then the king's military and civil household, followed by an interminable line of civilians, who had waited all night after the first news of the tragedy rocked the capital.

Widow Hurries Home

Dowager Queen Elizabeth, frail and grief-stricken by the accidental death of Albert, hurried to Brussels from Italy by another train. Astrid's parents, Prince Carl and Princess Ingebord of Sweden, came by airplane from Stockholm.

The funeral will be held Tuesday, and crowned heads, statesmen, and diplomats from all over Europe will attend the rites, bringing together the greatest assemblage of mourners since the funeral of the assassinated King Alexander of Yugoslavia.

DISPELLING THE FOG

By CHARLES MICHELSON

ACCORDING to Representative O'Connor of New York, between twenty and twenty-five million dollars was spent on propaganda against the holding company bill. The New York Congressman further quoted one of the holding company magnates to the effect that there would have been spent six billion dollars to stop the measure.

Nobody can advance that these magnates are pikers when it comes to spending their stockholders' money to preserve an agency that gave a couple of millions in salaries and bonuses to one of them during the depression when the companies paid no dividends to stockholders. The question arises, how much are these generous philanthrophies giving to the Republican campaign funds? They did not stop the holding company bill, so their next enterprise is to stop President Roosevelt. Theoretically we ought to be able to answer the financial question by reference to the G. O. P.'s reports to the Clerk of the House of Representatives. There are people (as recent court records show) in the Pennsylvania mountains who believe in witchcraft; there is a community in the United States that believes the earth is flat, but is there anybody in this great credulous country of ours who believes that the official reports will show anything of the sort?

In newspaper circles they speak of a twenty million campaign fund pledged to the G. O. P. Whatever is the actual amount, it is plenty. Undoubtedly the party of Mr. Hoover will be able to spend dollars where the Democrats spend dimes, though there may be a question if most of that party is willing to spend it for Mr. Hoover. Their National Committee is organizing half a dozen sectional bureaus. Their affiliated organizations, like the Liberty League, with its impressive directors list of multi-millionaires, are being equally lavish.

I notice, incidentally, that this latter non-partisan group of patriots is projecting an expression of opinion on the constitutionality of recent legislation of fifty eminent law firms. It is enlightening to realize that most of these eminent attorneys so far mentioned represent the same corporations that signed names, taken at large from telephone directories, to some hundreds of thousands of telegrams to Congressmen. The daily showers of telegrams were to show how the mighty mass of people was in revolt over the measure aimed to stop the Hopsons and the Insulls from continuing to harvest—without rendering any service—the dividends that would otherwise go to the stockholders of the operating utility companies. Others of this strictly impartial and judicial section of the bar have already pronounced their opiniones for their clients, political or otherwise. It is inspiring to think of the disinterestedness of James M. Beck, who got a $35,000 fee from President McCarter of the Edison Electric Institute, and Robert McCarter, the other McCarter's brother, and Forney Johnson, whose firm got $50,000 from the same source, and Frank Hogan, attorney for Mellon and Doheny, and John W. Davis, chief lawyer for the J. P. Morgan firm, and ex-Senator Davis A. Reed, to name only a few members of the unprejudiced group.

But to get back to the Republican plans. Who is to be chosen to carry the banner for the party next year? Will it be Vanderberg, who cited the opinions of some of the more eminent of his lawyer group on the floor of the Senate? Will it be Col. Frank Knox, who is doing the heavy organizing for the nomination? What will happen to Mr. Hoover if the Republican National Convention passes him up?

Editor Knox is the most interesting of the candidates at present. The other day a correspondent asked him how he reconciled his opposition to certain New Deal principles with his strong espousal of them when they were presented by Theodore Roosevelt in the Bull Moose campaign. If anybody does not think his editor is a statesman, let him read this part of his reply to his questioner:

"The difference between Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin Roosevelt is that Theodore was a statesman, who proposed to achieve the reforms he regarded as necessary within the framework of the Constitution and without impairing the integrity of the Constitution. The present Roosevelt is a self-seeking man without the capacity to understand, apparently, and wholly in different to the effects of the vast changes he proposes in the fabric of our Government."

My fellow columnist, Mark Sullivan, indicates that he sees the solution of the G. O. P. dilemma in a third party movement, which he thinks might alienate enough votes from Franklin Roosevelt in the South to give a Republican a chance. Well, the Richmond Times-Dispatch had a poll of Virginia, where Mr. Sullivan appears to think the anti-Roosevelt spirit is most vibrant, and the result showed 84 per cent of the voters for the President. A similar poll in the Republican end of North Carolina—the tenth and eleventh Congressional districts—gave the President 68 per cent of the votes, which is 10 per cent more than he got in 1932.

That by way of parenthesis. To return to the interesting matter of Col. Knox's candidacy. He publishes a newspaper in Chicago, and is loved by his competing publishers, Wm. Randolph Hearst, and Col. McCormick of the Tribune, with the fervor that goes with such a situation. Mr. Hearst in particular must have strong feelings on the subject. Perhaps he remembers the times he sought a Presidential nomination—and got no newspaper support but his own. Colonel Knox used to be a Hearst employe. At that time the newspaper world expected Mr. Hearst to gobble up the Chicago Daily News, which was in difficulties, and so rid himself of the only real competition he had in the evening newspaper field in Chicago. Instead of which Colonel Knox jumped the traces and bought the News for himself and rebuilt it into eminence and, perhaps, prosperity.

More to the point, Mr. Hearst has already selected his Republican presidential candidates. His friends report that in the order named these are his nominations: Senator Hiram Johnson, Senator Borah, and Senator Norris. In general these have voted, as did most of the Republican Progressives in Congress, for the New Deal measures which Mr. Hearst most strongly opposes. The Nation, in its issue of August 28, reproduces his general orders to his newspapers, and the news service he supplies. Readers of the Hearst press will observe how accurately these instructions are being carried out:

US31 NEW YORK, AUG. 7, 1935

AND ALL HEARST EDITORS:

THE CHIEF INSTRUCTS THAT THE PHRASE SOAK THE SUCCESSFUL BE USED IN ALL REFERENCES TO THE ADMINISTRATION'S TAX PROGRAM INSTEAD OF THE PHRASE SOAK THE THRIFTY HITHERTO USED STOP ALSO HE WANTS THE WORDS RAW DEAL USED INSTEAD OF NEW DEAL.

E. D. COBLENTZ

I do not know if any of the three Senators has been consulted on the subject.

The California Senator and the Nebraska Senator both supported Franklin Roosevelt in the 1932 election. The Idaho Senator took little part, though he adhered to his technical Republicanism in his public attitude. Perhaps Mr. Hearst, in favoring these three Progressives, may take a leaf out of Colonel Knox's philosophy, which roughly is that if Roosevelt adopts certain policies, they are wrong; if anybody else advocates them, they are right.

CHAPTER 34

MISS BOISEVAIN was much weaker that morning. She talked in a whisper, unable to raise her voice. Now and then a spasm of pain flicked across her face.

Janet could hardly imagine that this was the same woman she had seen sitting in the chair when she first came into the room . . . the woman with the strong, proud voice; the woman with her shoulders erect and straight. She missed the golden chain from Miss Boisevain's neck . . . and the chameleon.

"It is gone . . . dead," the woman whispered, answering the girl's unasked question. "Gone, dead, as I shall be soon. Last night was too much for it." A sigh shook her body.

"Did you hear the piano last night, child?"

Janet nodded.

"Did it frighten . . . you?"

The girl nodded.

"I'm sorry . . . child. Will you bring me that little box in the drawer of that table?" Her eyes indicated the table by her side.

Janet obediently opened the drawer, and pulled out a lapis lazuli box.

"Open it. You will find a miniature of me, painted when I was a girl."

There were several miniatures in the box, besides some letters and a tarnished silver vial. The thought flashed through Janet's brain that this was the vial containing poison! Gingerly, she picked up one of the miniatures. It was very small, scarcely two inches across, and fitted into a narrow gold frame which was studded with tiny emeralds.

The hair she recognized. Red curls piled high on the wide, girlish face, hair too heavy even then for the strong features. . . . Miss Boisevain when she was a girl. True, there was nothing beautiful about the face, nothing lovely, but Janet liked the small eyes which seemed to look into hers . . . something true . . . honest, about them.

"Show it to me, child."

Miss Boisevain viewed the miniature silently, as Janet held it near her. She said nothing for a long time, but when Janet looked at her, she saw tears falling down the yellow cheeks and sliding softly onto the white pillow.

"Yes, that was Morelle Boisevain when she was 17. Seventeen, child, before I ran away from this house, before I knew what the world was holding in store for me. Morelle Boisevain at 17 . . . you'd hardly recognize her, would you?"

"It seems a very good likeness to me," Janet assured her, but when she said it, she thought how white the skin on the miniature was . . . white and glowing with life; and then how yellow and sickly the skin of the woman lying near her. . . .

Idly, Janet picked up another miniature . . . that of an elderly man, with grayish red hair, and a thick, red beard. There seemed a malevolent gleam in his eyes.

"My father," Miss Boisevain murmured, softly.

"Open it."

But this was not the face Janet had seen in the crystal . . . that was a young face . . . and the eyes, while similar, were not the same. Of course, the man in the crystal had red hair . . . but it was not the same as this beautifully painted miniature.

"My father. . . ."

"But his was not the face I saw in the crystal," Janet ventured.

"No?"

There was still another miniature . . . a painting of a man with dark eyes and black hair . . . a young man. It was framed in the same manner as the others.

Miss Boisevain reached weakly for it, and after looking at it for a moment, placed it at her side.

A lover, Janet thought. A lover she had not married, and was sorry now.

The girl was about to close the box, when the sick woman asked for the letters which were on the bottom. She wanted them under her pillow, and Janet put them there, half tenderly.

"Is there nothing more in the box?"

"Yes, a large ruby . . . and a silver vial," Janet said.

"You may have the stone, child. It is yours. The vial you may have, too. It will serve you well, perhaps, if you stay on in this house. Keep it with you always. You will know when to use it."

"I . . . I can't take them, Miss Boisevain . . . neither of them."

"You must . . . I like you. You have been like a daughter to me while you've been here. You must take them. You may need . . . the vial!"

"But I'm not going to stay, Miss Boisevain. I am going away!"

Miss Boisevain closed her eyes. Janet thought she saw her head shake, in sad negation.

"Perhaps you have a lucky star, child, luckier than mine. I was born under a frightful planet. Only a little happiness in my life . . . just a little. But it was taken from me so soon. . . . You have been unhappy, too, child. I see it in your eyes. They are tired, too tired for a girl's eyes. You, too, have suffered. I have tried to read your eyes many times, but they are too strong for me, too strong. They elude me. I cannot tell what your future will be. I am weak. I have been for years.

"I am lame. . . ."

Battle Over Cotton Subsidy Shows Economic Struggle in South

WASHINGTON — Behind the last minute squabble over wheat and cotton subsidies which delayed adjournment of Congress was penetrating, bitter drama.

It revealed the fact that the staunchest pillars of Southern Democracy are a long way from being with their chieftain in the White House. It cut to the roots of the economic future of the South. It raised the question of whether King Cotton long can reign supreme over his domain.

Groundwork for the drama began months ago when Senators Bankhead of Alabama, "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina, George of Georgia and other cotton Senators received assurances from Roosevelt that they need not worry about the cotton loan, that farmers would get twelve cents for their cotton.

Whether Roosevelt said that the 12-cent cotton loan would be continued or merely that farmers would get twelve cents per pound on their crop is now a matter of grave debate and misunderstanding.

At any rate, the Senators say they understood the former, and on the strength of this "Cotton Ed," Chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee, forgot his aversion to the AAA and pushed the AAAmendments; while other Senators tipped off their cotton and textile friends that the 12-cent loan would continue.

AAA Opposition

About this time, however, Henry Wallace and Chester Davis, AAAdministrator, stepped into the picture.

They objected strenuously to continuation of the 12-cent loan, registered two main arguments to support their objections:

1. By 1936, the accumulation of cotton stocks in Government hands would be great enough to break the market, hurting both farmers and mill owners in the long run.

2. Other sections of the country, claiming cotton was favored, would demand price guarantees for wheat, corn, tobacco, potatoes and so on.

So Roosevelt told Davis and Wallace to cook up some plan which would ward off these catastrophes, yet save his face in regard to promises made to Southern Senators.

Thereupon Oscar Johnston, head of the Government's cotton pool, concocted the 9-cent loan plus a subsidy to farmers based upon the average four-month cotton price from September 1 to January 1. This would net the farmer about three cents additional—or a total of twelve cents.

Too Much Speed

The plan was thrust forward hurriedly to quiet highly speculative market and in order to force the President to commit himself definitely before he yielded to Southern pressure.

Even so, Wallace and Davis had a hard time putting their compromise across.

Roosevelt, who knows nothing about cotton, but thinks he knows a lot, wanted to stick by his Southern Senatorial friends. The latter had told him with considerable emphasis that Wallace and Davis "were corn-hog men who didn't know a—thing about cotton."

So Wallace and Davis pulled in big gun support. They brought up Henry Morgenthau, Jesse Jones, who puts up the money for cotton loans, plus the entire Credit Commodity Corporation, which functions under Jesse.

All painted a dark picture. They pointed to growing cotton production in Brazil, Egypt, Russia, Argentina. They claimed that the high price in the United States was encouraging this competition. They pointed to Hoover's disaster when he tried to uphold the price of wheat. They warned that it was best to ease down the price gradually, thereby selling more cotton abroad.

So the President yielded.

Unconstitutional

But here he and his advisers made two strategic mistakes. First, they might have continued a straight 12-cent loan and let the Supreme Court declare the Bankhead Bill unconstitutional, as it probably will do. In this case, Wallace's end would have been achieved, while Roosevelt would have received additional public support for his election campaign issue of "constitutionality."

Second, they might have delayed announcing the 9-cent compromise until the day after Congress adjourned. As it happened, the announcement came a few days before, causing a political hurricane from the cotton belt that is still blowing, and a prolongation of the Congressional session.

Southern Senators remembered the President's 12-cent loan pledges, were irate and wrathy. Senator George told friends he would never again cross the White House doorstep. Senators Byrnes of South Carolina, Harrison of Mississippi and Robinson of Arkansas were up against the prospect of defeat in the coming election.

There followed the cotton-wheat deadlock in Congress and the compromise of a 10-cent loan plus a 2-cent subsidy to farmers.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Not since his triumph in 'Scarface," has George Raft had a role so admirably suited to his talents as in Paramount's "The Glass Key", the new Dashiell Hammett thriller at the Cliftona Theatre.

This newest film from the pen of the man who wrote "The Thin Man" presents George Raft as a close-mouthed, hard-fisted citizen, a sort of prime minister to a great city's big-shot politician, Edward Arnold.

Told in Hammett's inimitable style, the picture blends romance, drama, love interest and a corking murder mystery to furnish unadulterated entertainment.

It all revolves about Arnold's political fortunes. The strong man of the city's administration, he suddenly clamps down on night life and acquires a group of new enemies.

AT THE CIRCLE

Sterling Holloway, contributing generously to the fun in "Advice to the Lovelorn," starring Lee Tracy with Sally Blane at the Circle Theatre tonight is one comedian who uses neither jokes nor gags to make people laugh. His method is a tired voice expressing an indecisive mind.

Holloway wanted to be a tragedian. His teacher at Sargent's Dramatic School in New York asked, "Have you ever looked at yourself in a mirror?"

AT THE GRAND

Lew Ayres, Claire Trevor, Walter King and ZaSu Pitts lead off the hilarious Fox Film comedy which comes Friday to the Grand Theatre. Ayres plays a prim society millionaire, Miss Trevor a runaway heiress, and ZaSu Pitts her timid, faithful maid. Others in this picture are Jack Haley, Tala Birell, Siegfried Rumann, and the comedy team of Mitchell and Durant.

Poems That Live

FOUR-LEAF CLOVER

I know a place where the sun is like gold,
And the cherry blossoms burst
with snow,
And down underneath is the loveliest nook,
Where the four-leaf clovers
grow.

One leaf is for hope, and one is for faith,
And one is for love, you know,
And God put another in for luck,—
If you search, you will find where they grow.

But you must have hope, and you must have faith,
You must love and be strong—
and so,
If you work if you wait, you will find the place
Where the four-leaf clovers
grow.

What to Do to Prepare Young Child for School

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE LITTLE FELLOW is going to school today—for the first time. He's five now—the baby days are behind him. Life begins in earnest.

Dr. Clendening

He is to have tasks. He must prove himself. More important than anything else, he will meet competition. He will begin to associate with his fellows.

How will he stand the test? It is a frightening thought, but also an ennobling one—a stimulus for all of his parents and well-wishers.

Certainly he should have every chance to do it well. His body, as well as his mind, will be tested. And he must try to realize the old Greek ideal—"mens sanus in corpore sano."

Now, I am not one of those who thinks that the little fellow should be overhauled like an automobile about to take a journey, before going to school. If he is plainly healthy, with a wholesome mind and understanding, delighting in play and activity, I certainly do not think it is necessary to send him to a jury of specialists in dentistry, and nose and throating, and heart and lungsery, any eyes and earsery, and everything else. Lots of us went to school before the word "orthodontia" was invented, and some of us did very well. Not that these fellows are not useful in their place and when their time comes—but it seems to me sometimes we fuss too much with the machine.

Things to Remember

But there are some things I think most evidently should be remembered for the little fellow before he starts his first day in school. Your family physician will give you all the advice you need about special treatments.

First, let's be sure he can see and hear well. He has never had these senses really tested in his baby days. No one would notice if he were nearsighted: he himself would not know what it means. Now he has to hear questions distinctly and begin to decipher letters and words. Perhaps he has a slight eye defect or is just a little under normal in hearing. And he might go and fall behind in classes and nobody understand why, with his bright, eager brain.

Then, let us remember his many new human contacts. He has been comparatively alone, up to now. Suddenly he is thrown with several hundred children. Some of them may be just coming down with a contagious disease. Some come from households where there has been diphtheria—they may, all unwittingly, so far as they or their parents are concerned, be carrying around some of the germs in their own mouths or throats. So let us immunize the little fellow to diphtheria, typhoid fever and smallpox, perhaps whooping cough, before we send him off.

We will discuss details in the following articles this week.

DISHES FOR COLD SUPPER MENUS

Salmon In An Unusual Hors D'Oeuvres As First Course for The Sunday Night Supper

To make the salmon hors d'oeuvres use: six hard cooked eggs; one can red salmon; two pickles; one half cup mayonnaise; one tablespoon finely minced onion and juice; tabasco sauce; a little salt and pepper to season; two tablespoons gelatine; two bouillon cubes; a tablespoon parsley; two chopped carrots; three tablespoons finely minced celery and a little minced celery leaves.

Split the hard cooked eggs in halves lengthwise. Mash yolks fine. Mince the salmon which is freed of bones and skin and beat into the mashed egg yolk. Add the two chopped pickles, onion juice, and seasonings, and stuff into the whites of the eggs. Dissolve the gelatine in one half cup of warm water. Dissolve the bouillon cubes in two cups of boiling water and heat with the parsley and carrots. Strain over the gelatine and let all cool.

Place the eggs in small fancy molds with the stuffed side uppermost. Pour a little of the bouillon mixture over each. Sprinkle with minced celery and celery leaves. Pour in more bouillon. Let chill until firm. Turn out on a small lettuce leaf. Top with mayonnaise.

Frozen Salad

One cup canned salmon; one cup mayonnaise; one cup whipping cream; one cup finely minced celery; one tablespoon lemon juice; one large green pepper, chopped fine; one pimiento chopped fine; one tablespoon finely minced parsley; one teaspoon onion juice; one teaspoon salt. Mix dry ingredients lightly with fork. Add lemon and onion juices. Whip cream stiff and fold in the mayonnaise. Mix all together. Pack into the refrigerator tray or into a mould and chill at least three hours at low temperature. Slice and serve on crisp lettuce, with a little mayonnaise. Or slice and serve as part of cold meat platter.

Molded Fruits

Two tablespoons gelatine; one half cup cold water; two tablespoons sugar; one fourth cup lemon juice; one and one half cups gingerale; one half cup chopped pineapple; one half cup stoned cherries; one half cup other small berries or orange sections; one half cup chopped nuts; mayonnaise and crisp lettuce.

Soak the gelatine in the cold water. Add sugar and dissolve over hot water. Let cool. Add lemon juice and gingerale. When thickened and beginning to set, add the fruit and nuts, and pour into small fancy molds, or one large mold. Place in refrigerator. Unmold when firm. Garnish with small curls of mayonnaise.

My father and his father were farmers. Amcricans. I know of no prouder title. They loved their country and obeyed its laws.—Federal Judge M. E. Otis, answering threats of violence from farmers infuriated by foreclosure sales.

Pineapple Raisin Ice Cream

One and one half cups milk; two tablespoons granulated tapioca.. two tablespoons sugar; one half pint whipping cream; one half teaspoon grated orange rind; one cup seedless raisins; one cup crushed pineapple one eighth teaspoon salt; two teaspoons vanilla.

Cook tapioca with milk in top of double boiler about ten minutes, strain over the sugar and salt, but do not rub the tapioca through the sieve. Boil raisins 5 minutes, drain and cool. Whip cream until stiff. When milk is cold, combine with raisins, pineapple, orange rind, and whipped cream. Blend thoroughly. Pour into refrigerator pan and freeze. Stir well after first half hour. Unmold and slice after about three hours. Serves six to eight.

Orange Ice Cream

One cup evaporated milk; one half teaspoon gelatine; one tablespoon cold water; one cup chopped nuts; one cup milk; three fourths cup sugar; one tablespoon cornstarch; one egg; two teaspoons grated orange rind; three fourths cup orange juice; two tablespoon lemon juice.

Scald evaporated milk. Soften gelatine in cold water and dissolve in hot milk. Chill. Scald three fourths cup of milk; blend sugar and cornstarch with milk, egg yolk, and then add to milk. Stir constantly until thick and smooth. Add orange rind, cool, and add orange and lemon juice. Whip chilled evaporated milk until stiff, add orange custard, raisins, and mix thoroughly. Pour into refrigerator pan and freeze. Stir after it has been in refrigerator one half hour. Serves six to eight.

Raisin Parfait

One cup evaporated milk; one half teaspoon granulated gelatine; one tablespoon cold water; one cup raisins; one half cup white table syrup.. two egg whites; one teaspoon vanilla; one eighth teaspoon maple flavoring.

Scald milk in double boiler. Soften gelatine in cold water and dissolve in hot milk Chill, and beat until stiff. Boil raisins five minutes, drain and cool. Boil syrup until it spins a thread, then pour over stiffly beaten egg whites and beat until cold. Add flavorings, and combine with whipped milk. Pour into refrigerator pan and freeze. Makes six parfaits.

Chocolate Ice Cream

One cup black walnut kernels; one cup milk; one third cup sugar; one square chocolate; one tablespoon cornstarch; one eighth teaspoon salt; one eighth teaspoon cinnamon; one teaspoon vanilla; one half pint whipping cream.

Cut chocolate in pieces and mix with sugar, cornstarch, salt and cinnamon. Moisten with a little cold milk and stir into remaining milk which has been heated in double boiler. Continue stirring until chocolate is melted and custard is clear. Add vanilla and cool. Beat cream until stiff and combine with chocolate mixture and nuts. Pour into refrigerator pan and freeze three hours. Stir after first half hour. Serves six.

Moderns couldn't endure the old-fashioned two-hour dinner. They couldn't stop smoking that long.

TEMPTING MENUS by

MARY RUSK

Nourishing Dishes For Early Autumn

When corn is in its golden glory is an excellent time to serve corn chowder. Youngsters will like it for lunch, and the entire family will relish it for supper.

Corn Chowder

5 C. corn pulp
6 C. potatoes, diced
¼ tsp. pepper
1½ onion, diced
3 Tbsp. butter
3 oz. salt pork, diced
¾ tsp. paprika
2¼ C. boiling water
3 C. milk

Brown the pork in a pan and add the onion. Add boiling water, corn, seasonings and potatoes. Cover and bake at 375 degrees for 1½ hours. Add the butter and scalded milk, and serve at once.

Chicken Loaf

To utilize leftovers to the greatest advantage make them into appetizing servings like this chicken loaf:

3 C. chicken
1½ C. peas
1 C. carrots
1½ C. stale bread crumbs
1 C. milk
2 egg yolks
2 tsp. salt
2 tsp. onion juice
1 tsp. lemon juice

Place cold, leftover chicken and mixed vegetables in baking pan after first combining ingredients thoroughly. Bake at 400 degrees for 45 minutes.

Peach Pudding

Peach pudding is a welcome dessert and a different way of using the fruit which is so plentiful at this season.

Sift 2 cups flour, ½ tsp. salt, 4 Tbsp. sugar and 4 tsp. baking powder in a bowl. Add 4 Tbsp. butter, cut it into the flour mixture and blend thoroughly. Beat 1 egg and add it with ⅔ C. milk to the first mixture. Add the fruit, measuring 1 cup fresh peaches, which have been cut up fine. Mix well and turn into greased custard cups, and place in a shallow pan of hot water. Bake 30 minutes at 400 degrees.

Special Baked Potato

3 large baked potatoes
¾ C. hot milk
2 Tbsp. hot butter
1 tsp. salt
1 C. cream sauce
½ C. chopped bologna
Fried apple slices
Paprika
Parsley

Scoop out potatoes and mash. Add milk, butter and salt. Combine cream sauce and bologna. Fill potato shells with creamed mixture. Cover with mashed potato and brown in oven (400 degrees) about 15 minutes. Serve with apple slices. Garnish with parsley and paprika.

LOVES TO EAT THIS CEREAL, IT CHECKED HER CONSTIPATION*

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Helped Miss Kesterke

We quote from her letter: "Three years ago, I became constipated.* I tried many laxatives. But as soon as I got used to each kind, I began to get the same trouble.

"Last summer I was on my vacation. They served Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I just loved it. I eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every morning, and ever since I have not had to take any more laxatives."—Miss Margaret Kesterke, Cresskill, N. J.

*Due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also rich in vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle. It resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables, so it is often more effective.

Isn't this food safer than risking patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. If seriously constipated, use with each meal. See your doctor, if you do not get relief.

Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

THESE COOL DRINKS

Current Mint Frappe

Two tablespoons chopped mint; three cups boiling water; one third cup orange juice one eighth glass currant jelly; one drop oil peppermint; one teaspoon gelatine; two tablespoons cold water.

Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes and dissolve it with the currant jelly over hot water. Cool, add other ingredients and freeze slightly, stirring every twenty minutes. When mushy serve in tall glasses with spoon and straw. Garnish with fresh mint leaves for good effect. Four or five glasses.

Tea Punch

Three quarts water; three cups sugar; one cup strong, freshly made tea; juice one dozen oranges; one dozen lemons; one dozen limes (half for juice, half for slicing); one small bottle gingerale; one pint raspberry or strawberry or red grapejuice. Blend all juices; boil water and sugar eight minutes. Cool, add to juices, chill and blend with tea and gingerale. Garnish each glass with sliced lime. Serves thirty to forty people.

Beverage Accessories

Equip the beverage counter in your kitchen with the best fruit juice extractor available; an electric one if possible, or one of those which turn a handle and ream the halved fruit. Sometimes a strainer is necessary to remove seeds and fibers. A large glass pitcher or enameled kettle with long handled stirring spoon aids the process; tall beverage glasses, glass stirring rods or spoons; straws; a tray; probably small castors on which to stand the glasses. You need a sharp, stainless steel knife for cutting fruit and slicing also. Ice cubes may be crushed easily in one of the new patent crushers, on sale in most kitchenware departments.

Marian Martin Patterns

Complete Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart Included.

PATTERN 9244

Whether you're just a "light" housekeeper, or an old-fashioned one who still keeps a cookie jar in the pantry, this charming house or porch frock will appeal strongly, for it's as thrifty as it is smart. Wearing it you will be dainty for breakfast, smart to go to market, or answer a surprise call at the door, without feeling flustered or untidy. Its lines are plain, simple and extremely slenderizing, while surplice closing and sleeves go in for button accented scallops. Note how shoulder darts make a nicely turned shoulder, and release fullness only where necessary. Make it in percale or other colorful cotton. Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9244 may be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4 yards 36 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Send your order to The Herald, Pattern Department, 124 W. Main-st, Circleville, Ohio.

MADE in standard Square and Round style or with Special Wide Mouth when preferred.

FREE 64 page recipe and canning book on request.

PROVE BETTER THAN YOUTHS

Manders' Field Goal, Shepherd's Safety Provide Margin Before 77,450.

CHICAGO, Aug. 0— Smart professional football is superior to the brand stimulated by the "Die for dear old Rutgers" spirit.

The Chicago Bears, playing for naught but sordid paychecks, demonstrated that before 77,450 spectators here last night when they out-smarted and out-played the collegiate all-stars, battling for honor and glory, 5 to 0.

The score is scarcely indicative of the superiority of the Bears over the cream of the nation's collegiate gridiron talent, chosen for this game by a nation-wide poll of fans.

Early in the first quarter the Bears crashed their way along Soldiers' field to the all-star's two yard line, largely through the efforts of Beattie Feathers. However, Bill Shepherd of Western Maryland who later was to be a goat, provided the heroics by breaking through the line and stopping the on-rushing Bears. A 15-yard penalty for holding set the Bears further back whereupon Jack Manders swung his educated toe and place-kicked for three points.

Stopped In Drives

From thereon the Bears crumbled and crunched their way toward the collegiate goal line time and again, only to lose the ball for one reason or another and see Shepherd loft it out of danger.

It rained throughout the second half, and the quarterbacks were content to resort to a kicking game.

The all-stars closest threat came at the outset of the fourth quarter when Shepherd tossed a pass to Hutson good for 17 yards, and then scampered 19 yards to the Bears' 8-yard line. But the Pros stiffened and the collegians lost the ball on downs.

The game then reverted again to a punting duel with the Bears having the best of it and finally working the ball to the all-star 8-yard line. The collegians took the ball on downs but on the first play the pass from center was high and Shepherd fumbled behind the goal line, recovering the ball for a safety, giving the Bears two points and a total of five, the winning margin.

Shepherd was the big gun for the college lads, capably aided by Kostka of Minnesota, Nichelini of St. Mary's of California and Hutson of Alabama.

Team-Work Stressed

The professionals played with their usual team-work, though the smashing of Manders, the running of Feathers and Sisk, and the punting of Pollock was outstanding.

The all-stars were coached b y Frank Thomas of Alabama, Charley Bachman of Michigan State, Doc Spears of Wisconsin and Slip Madigan of St. Mary's, all chosen by a vote of fans.

TRACY HANOVER WINS FOR SHORT

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30.—Harness racing enthusiasts today prepared for the fifth day of activities at the state fairgrounds where a crowd of 12,000 saw the Irish combination of Kelly and Pat O'Connell win the annual Governor's Stake, headline event of the week.

Kelly, a North Randall horse owned and driven by O'Connell, stepped away from a brilliant field of Ohio's three-year old trotters to win two of the three heats in the Governor's race of $1,500. Tim S. won the second heat of the headliner while Kelly took a second.

Driven by Harry Short

The Neil House Stake of $600 went to Tracy Hanover in an extra heat which was necessary to decide the issue. Tracy Hanover defeated Lee Hanover and Lillie Part, other heat winners in the three-year old pacing jamboree.

Angel Child accounted for the 2:11 trot in straight heats. She was driven by O. H. Erskine. Theo Guy captured the 2:18 pace in a straight-heat victory.

RYBA IN FORM

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30.—Another comparatively quiet day faced American Association teams with only two games scheduled for today. Columbus will meet Toledo while St. Paul clashes with Minneapolis.

The Flock and Mudhens were the only teams which played yesterday, the Red Birds taking a 2 to 0 decision in the first of a twin bill while rain stopped hostilities at the end of the fifth in the nightcap with the score tied, 1 to 1.

Mike Ryba, recently acquired by the St. Louis Cards, stopped the Mudhens in the opener by holding them scoreless after he replaced Mort Cooper at the start of the third inning. The Toledoans

Actress Swoons as Bud Baer Slugs Jack Doyle

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—Handsome Jack Doyle, who arrived in American with a reputation for fighting and singing, can return to his beloved Ireland today with his vocal chords unscathed at least.

Personal appearances and cinema shorts vouch for Jack's tenor voice—but that's all. Buddy Baer, Max's big brother, shattered handsome Jack's boxing ability last night at the Garden by scoring a knockout after 2:38 of battling in the first round. It was another case of a baritone trimming a tenor.

Doyle is dead game but that will not preserve his beauty. He wasn't meeting in Baer a donato who goes down under invisible punches he was up against a 238¼ pound giant with a concrete lined and a knockout punch in each hand.

It was apparent at the outset that Doyle wouldn't survive the opening round. Buddy's booming right thudded against Doyle's thigh. Jack did a "Phil Scott" in his own corner. But he got up quickly when he discovered Referee Billy Cavanaugh picking up the time-keeper's count.

After a few exchanges, Baer drove Jack to the ropes with a flurry of punches and flattened him with a long right to the jaw. Doyle bounded to his feet but Buddy cornered him again. A right and a left floored Doyle for five. It didn't seem possible that he'd arise but he did. Hardly able to raise his hands, Jack walked toward Buddy who nailed him with a left and was prepared to finish him with a right when Referee Cavanaugh intervened.

Judith Allen, Doyle's actress wife, was grief stricken. She sat at the ringside and winced every time Jack got hit. When the finish came she collapsed and had to be carried from the arena.

A good golf ball is as essential to your game as a good spark plug to your car—

Several recent applications for membership to the club have been reported—'Tis good news—

Mrs. Gilmore, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Will and Mrs. Heffner are practicing regularly—Two new pupils of the pro are coming along well and may be hard to beat next summer—

Sunday the club championship will be settled between L. C. Hanson and Glen Geib in a 36-hole match—Class A will also be contested between George Myers and N. E. Reichelderfer and Class B between Harold Davis and Dr. Gardner—

Monday The Herald cup will be the object of a handicap tournament—

WALKER VICTOR

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Mickey Walker, ex-welterweight and middleweight champion, is still too good for most of the pugilistic ham-donnies who infest the numerous small clubs in the metropolitan area.

Appearing at the Fort Hamilton army reservation in Brooklyn last night, the once glamorous Mickey knocked out one Thys Menger of Paterson, N. J., in 2:45 of the second round.

Mickey had Menger on the floor early in the first round and put him definitely to sleep in the second stanza with a terrific right to the jaw.

ROOKIES SIGNED

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

MASTERING BRIDGE (19)

THE VARIOUS sound reasons for making opening bids upon minimum strength, as either dealer or second hand (to show better than average defensive strength, whether it is concentrated chiefly in a suit or divided among at least three suits, to encourage partner's bidding, to minimize opposing no trumps and to disclose the best defense against them), vanish after partner has passed and your opportunity to bid reaches you either third or four hand.

The above remarks apply with followers of the usual occidental type of game commonly favored in this part of the world, and best adapted to our general trend of thought. Some 20 years ago, as previously mentioned, Mr. Whitehead for a time proposed the oriental type of game, which included passing powerful hands as dealer or second hand, and making light opening bids as third or fourth hand, to provide for cases where partner had not opened with powerful hands. After long trial of such bidding all of us abandoned it as less efficient than regulation tactics. Like psychic bids and other deceptive tactics, large gains came only through unexpectedness.

Nearly all players flatter themselves upon their psychological ability, but few players really possess marked talent that way. The majority of them deceive partner more seriously than they do opponents. The best card psychologist I know is not an especially expert bidder or player, but his instinctive ability to make baffling bids and plays when time and opponents favor such tactics, make him a dangerous foe for any expert.

For general purposes, the best rules for opening bidding third or fourth hand are: If strong in both major suits, open upon two and one-half quick tricks and five probable tricks; if weak in one major suit, do not open upon less than three quick tricks and five probable tricks; if weak in both major suits, do not open without three and one-half quick tricks and five probable tricks. Quick trick strength should increase as major suit strength diminishes. Unless partner is hopelessly weak the third or fourth hand opener should possess probable ability to outbid opponents or be able to prevent them from scoring game. The following hands are minimum openers for positions beyond second hand.

	♠ K Q J 6 ♥ A Q J 4 ♦ 8 5 ♣ 7 6 2
♠ A K J 6 ♥ 8 5 ♦ 7 6 2 ♣ K Q J 6		♠ 8 5 ♥ 7 6 2 ♦ A K J 6 ♣ A Q 9 6
	♠ K 10 7 2 ♥ 9 5 3 ♦ J 3 2 ♣ K 10 6
♠ J 9 8 6 5 3 ♥ 10 6 2 ♦ K Q 6 ♣ 8	W. N. E. S.	♠ 4 ♥ 7 ♦ 8 7 5 4 ♣ Q 9 7 5 4 3 2
	♠ A Q ♥ A K Q J 8 4 ♦ A 10 9 ♣ A J

Hearts are trumps. The opening lead is the K of diamonds. Before tomorrow see whether or not declarer can squeeze for a grand slam. He both bid and made a small slam.

Landon, Borah, Knox Believed Favor to Gain 1936 Nomination

HOOVER IS ENIGMA

Convention of 1920 Recalled By Leaders

WASHINGTON, Aug. 0— Out of the mists of Republican uncertainty and confusion there appear to be emerging three men who in the end may be battling it out for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

They are:

Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas, who has performed the political miracles of reducing expenditures and taxes when all about him were increasing their's, and of getting himself elected and re-elected in the midst of two Democratic landslides.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, long the lone wolf of Republican politics, strong in the west, weak in the east, getting along in years, but still full of youthful fire.

Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, the most active of all the numerous possibilities, who is perfecting perhaps the most effective delegate organization of them all.

Many Mentioned

Behind these three, the favorite son and other possibilities string out in a seemingly endless row—Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, Senator Dickinson of Iowa, Senator Steiwer of Oregon, Rep. Hamilton Fish of New York, et cetera.

To many observers the Republican convention of 1936, now only ten months away, is stacking up at this early date as somewhat reminiscent of the famous convention of 1920. In that year, three stalwarts, Lowden, Wood and Johnson, battled themselves into deadlock and defeat, with the relatively obscure Warren G. Harding coming along at the last moment to gallop off with the nomination and certain election. It may or may not be that history will repeat itself. Maybe not, for all Republican factions are agreed, even this early, that their sole hope for victory next year lies in unity, not division, such as might conceivably follow a bitterly contested convention.

Hoover Is Question

The biggest question mark in the Republican equation is the attitude of Herbert Hoover. Ostensibly and publicly, he is not a candidate. Privately his friends assert he is "itching" for another try at the man who in 1932 sent him into retirement as the worst defeated presidential candidate in history. Nothwithstanding his "itch," his friends say he will not put himself forward as a candidate; that he wants to run, but only if the nomination comes to him on a platter. He wants, they say, to be drafted. It is exceedingly unlikely he will be.

NEWS MEN GUESTS TODAY AT BIG FAIR

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30—Cloudy overcast skies were on hand today as State Fair officials played host to Ohio newspapermen who were given the privilege of the grounds after lunching with Agriculture Director Earl Hanefeld and Fair Manager W. W. Ellenwood.

Early morning visitors flocked to the race track on the grounds where junior fair exhibitors held a flying contest for model airplanes.

The fisheries building has attracted a crowd estimated between 50,000 and 60,000 persons to watch exhibits prepared by the state conservation department. Moving pictures of game management and the state's method of bass and game propagation were displayed.

A complete sellout of all Fair features was reported early yesterday when an estimated gathering of 100,000 taxed the grounds.

Gov. Martin L. Davey and his cabinet made a personal tour of the Fair in conjunction with "Governor's Day." The Governor officiated at the cutting of a huge cake during a luncheon in his honor and then witnessed the running of the annual "Governor's Race."

Berrodin Asks Higher Pension

Abolition Of County Boards and Assurance of Funds Also Asked Today

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30— Ohio should increase the maximum old age pension from $25 to $30, provide sufficient funds to care for an ever-mounting pension roll expected to reach 100,000 by December, and abolish the county pension boards, Henry J. Berrodin, Akron, chief of the state division of aid for the aged, told the joint legislative taxation committee today.

Berrodin, pleading with the committee to prepare legislation amending the present pension laws for consideration of the special session of the legislature this fall, warned committee members:

"You must provide the money—it is a serious problem."

Six Millions Needed

Approximately $6,000,000 is needed for pensions during the remainder of the year. Committee members hope to enact legislation enabling Ohio to share in the federal government's social security program as soon as federal funds are provided for the program.

Berrodin, who appealed to the committee to change existing pension laws to abolish entirely the local boards in counties, composed of county commissioners, or set up new boards, dominated by representatives of the state division.

"The state division is held responsible for cost, number of recipients. Since we are responsible we should have something to say about expenditures."

Follow Disputes

His pleas for abolishing the county boards followed weeks of wrangling with antagonistic county officials. Berrodin, who has been charged with "playing politics" in appointment of employes to county units, has been blocked by these boards in several attempts to select appointees.

Huey's Nemesis?

Representative Granfield

In the last moments of the congressional session, a bill was put over quietly in the house to investigate Senator Huey Long's "dictatorship" in Louisiana. Representative William D. Granfield, above, Democrat, of Massachusetts, who introduced the resolution, has been named chairman of the committee of three Democrats and two Republicans.

SHERRILL HITS THREE BOARDS

Report Handed to Governor Would End Cosmetology, Barber, Housing.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30—Recommending that three state boards be abolished and another transferred to a state department, the Ohio Government Survey committee today told Gov. Martin L. Davey how to save $12,719 more a year on Ohio's governmental bill.

The committee urged Davey to abolish the state board of cosmetology, state board of barber examiners and the state board of housing and to transfer the state water conservation board to the department of public works.

Total savings that would result from these changes are reduced by virtue of the fact that the committee estimates fee revenues collected by the board of cosmetology and barber examiners totals $123,500 a year.

The board of housing should be eliminated, the survey group suggests, because the federal housing administration has taken over its duties.

The Ohio State planning board should be continued only as long as necessary to co-ordinate federal projects.

The state board of examiners or architects is "satisfactory", as is the state board of registration for professional engineers and surveyors, the committee declared.

An increase in the field staff of the Ohio State medical board from two to three is urged, but the committee points out: "operation of the long-established Ohio State Medical Board is generally satisfactory."

SIGNS WARN FAIR VISITORS OF TRAP

KIRKERSVILLE, Aug. 30—Visitors enroute to and from the State fair through this village's alleged speed trap on U. S. route 40 today were receiving the best attention in a novel way against arrest for speeding.

Two transients—Mock Mick and Albert Johnson—are stationed at the portals of Kirkersville, each carrying a large sign which reads:

"Slow—speed cop ¼ mile."

The transients revealed that a garage man near the village pays them $1 per day and board for warning motorists. Despite threats of arrest, Mick and Johnson seem to enjoy their good samaritan tasks.

WILL CONTEST RULING HEARD

Judge Bell Decidse Mary E. Corkwell Meant Half-Brothers, Sisters, Too.

A decision in a will case of interest to many Pickaway countians was handed downThursday in London by Judge James F. Bell of Madison-co common pleas court.

The case was that of Charles P. Corkwell, as executor, against Eliza Williams and others, instituted to construe the will of Mary J. Corkwell, late of Mt. Sterling.

The question before the court was whether the testatrix by the use of the term brothers and sisters in her will and codicils intended to include as beneficiaries half brothers and sisters as well as full brothers and sisters. Mrs. Corkwell's father was married twice and there were two sets of children. The decision of the court was the term brothers and sisters included both groups.

Attorney Charles H. May represented the plaintiff. One group of heirs was represented by Attorneys Frank Raymond and C. L. Corkwell, Columbus, and the other group by Gerhardt and Gerhardt, Deane M. Richmond and Clark Wickenseimer.

The estate is worth about $25,000.

STATE DISCREDITS 'LIVE BABY' STORY

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 30—Prosecution forces today dampened hopes of Bruno Richard Hauptmann that the convicted Lindbergh baby slayer might wage a new battle to escape the death chair through the resemblance of a baby boy, adopted by a Long Island couple, to the kidnaped son of America's famous flyer.

Fingerprints of Baby Lindbergh, taken from objects in the nursery from where the infant was stolen, are in state police files it was revealed coincident with expression of prosecution willingness to have those prints compared with prints of the Long Island baby.

Further cold water was poured on defense hopes with the declaration of Capt. John J. Lamb of the New Jersey state police that the Long Island tot had been investigated soon after the kidnaping and that it had been established at that time that the infant was not the missing Lindbergh baby.

Bandits Escape With Huge Loot

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30 — State highway patrolmen today were searching for two bandits who staged a daring daylight hold-up late yesterday of a pair of bank messengers at Springfield, O., and escaped with $50,000 in new currency being delivered to the First National Bank and Trust Co.

The robbery occurred in front of the Springfield postoffice with several witnesses look-on in fear as one bandit covered them with a machine gun while the other "relieved the bank messengers of their money satchel.

Involved in Others

The robbers, believed to be the same pair which staged a similar successful hold-up on a North Baltimore, O., bank several days ago and escaped with some $4,500 and followed this with robberies in Madison-co which netted them $212 and money order blanks and others in Massilton, Canton and other cities in the same territory, escaped in a maroon colored Ford V-8 coupe bearing Ohio license tags 6133-F or 631-M and headed toward Toledo also in the immediate territory of the previous hold-ups.

License tags 6133-F were issued to Howard Glenn Aldrich, Toledo, while 631-M belong to Leonard Bellener, Maumee. Inasmuch as neither Bellener's nor Aldrich's car nor tags were missing, state highway patrol officials intimated the license plates used by the bandits were counterfeits.

Previous to the Springfield hold-up, two bandits, strongly resembling the hunted duo, successfully held-up a Dayton filling station attendant and escaped with an unknown amount of cash. Despite the fact the Dayton robbers were driving a Plymouth coach, local authorities believed they were the same pair who "pulled" the Clarkco "job," 27 miles northeast of there.

FLOOD WATER STRIKES WEST

New Mexico Residents Forced to Flee; Homes Washed From Foundations.

LAS CRUCES, N. M., Aug. 30.—Scores of townspeople were forced to leave their homes today when flood waters roared through Las Cruces as the heaviest rainstorm in 30 years fell over this section.

Damage to property in the city had run into thousands of dollars this morning. Adobe houses in the poorer residential section crumbled and fell away under the torrential rainfall and rising water.

The rain started to fall at 11:00 o'clock last night and continued to come down in torrents this morning.

Flooded streams and arroyas in the mesa land east of Las Cruces furnished a threat of a flood of greater proportions when the crest of the water reached here.

TRINIDAD, Colo., Aug. 30.—Heavy rains between Raton and Las Vegas, N. M., resulted today in delay of passenger traffic over the Santa Fe railroad when trains were held up at Las Vegas and Albuquerque.

Local railroad officials said reports that stretches of tracks had been washed out were erroneous and that normal traffic would be resumed later in the day.

Colorado and southern trains were arriving in Colorado behind schedule because of a detour between Amearillo and Dalhart, Tex., caused by a washout between the two towns yesterday.

Wall of Floodwater Drown Four in Bus

TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 30—Four dead and three injured today was the toll of a cloudburst which sent an 8-foot wall of water rushing down a mountainside near here yesterday to wreck a transcontinental bus.

The bus, carrying 27 passengers and a crew of two, was carried more than 75 feet by the raging torrent before it was hurled against a telephone pole.

The dead are: Joe N. Sabline, 60, Chicago; Mary Dosh, 28, and Reyon Dosh, 11, Tucson, Ariz., and John J. Real, Tulsa, Okla.

800 SIGN TO REPAIR WALKS

Cost Computed by Justus; Program to Be Placed Under WPA Setup.

Approximately 800 residents have signed to take part in Circleville's sidewalk project to be listed under the WPA.

Under the program 109,196 square feet of concrete sidewalks will be laid, 133,618 square feet of brick sidewalks reconstructed, and 10,395 lineal feet of curb and gutter installed.

Tabulation of the project was completed Thursday evening by Service Director William M. Justus after completion of a city-wide survey. Mr. Justus said the project would be listed with WPA officials as soon as his department complete a labor schedule for the improvements.

The material cost to property owners for concrete sidewalks will be 8½ cents per square foot and 25 cents per lineal foot for curb and gutter. The reconstruction of brick sidewalks would come entirely under WPA labor with no cost to property owners.

CECIL ALLEN, LAST TO TAKE OFF, VICTIM AS PLANE FALLS

Cold Rain, Report of Tragedy Reduces Size of Crowd as Air Races Open; Amelia Earhart Putnam, Late Entry, First to Leave for East.

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 30—Death and a chilling downpour of rain joined hands today to set a somber opening schedule for the 1935 National Air Races.

Under the rambling wooden stands which held a handful of drenched spectators, that part of the aviation coterie which has arrived to participate in the four-day meet discussed in subdued tones of the tragic end of Cecil Allen in the Bendix take-off at Los Angeles.

A lowering leaden sky sent down a stinging drizzle and brought from race officials that prediction that the intrepid pilots winging across the nation in the classic which produced a new transcontinental record last year might be unable to locate the airport.

Joins Air Tour

Amelia Earhart Putnam

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30—Less than five minutes after he took off from Union Air terminal here, the last plane to start in the $10,000 Bendix trophy air dash to Cleveland, Cecil Allen, 31, plunged to his death in a plowed field today.

The tricky GeeBee racing plane, with which Allen had trouble before the takeoff, was completely demolished and wreckage was strewn over an area of more than 300 yards.

Jammed in Wreck

Allen's body was jammed in the wreckage and considerable difficulty was experienced in extracting it.

Nearby residents who heard the crash declared Allen apperently was trying to return to the field he had just left when the crackup occurred, and seeing he could not make it attempted to land on a paved highway.

Indications showed the pilot missed the paved highway and possible safety by less than 100 yards.

The plane, which had a landing speed said to have been well in excess of 200 miles an hour, struck the plowed field and careened forward for more than 300 yards, scattering wreckage and splattering gasoline from the filled fuel tanks over the entire area.

There was no explosion or fire, although the plane struck with such terrific force it was first reported it had exploded.

Repaired Plane

Allen got away from the airport at 5:18 a. m., after spending almost an hour making repairs to his gasoline filter and fuel system.

On the takeoff the ship careened crazily as it sped down the runaway at better than 200 miles an hour. Airport attendants ordered ambulances and fire fighting equipment to stand by but Allen succeeded in getting off the ground.

Once in the air the plane continued to waver, but finally Allen seemed to gather speed and darted away. It was only a few minutes later the crash occurred.

Ambulances and fire fighting equipment immediately was rushed to the scene.

Allen only recently returned to active flying after an attempt with Don Moyle to fly the Pacific

PRICE LEVEL CLIMBS HIGH

Highest in Five Years Reports Labor Department; Food, Farm Goods Up.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The present level of wholesale commodity prices is the highest that has been reached during the past five years and shows a net gain of nearly four percent since Jan. 1, the bureau of statistics of the labor department announced today.

"The general strengthening of prices is shown by the fact that no group registered a decline over the week period," the bureau said. "Of the ten commodity groups covered four remained unchanged from the level of the preceding week and six showed advances of varying degrees.

"The groups recording an average rise were farm products, foods, hides and leather products, textile products, metals and metal products, and chemicals and drugs."

Compared with the corresponding week of last year, foods advanced 14 per cent, and farm products rose 12.4 per cent to register the largest increases.

OHIO LEADERS SEEK AID FOR THEIR CITIES

Need For Government Funds Stressed; Lorain Man Is Named President.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30 The needs of municipal, county and township governments for funds next year, if governmental operations are not to disintegrate, were stressed today as officials from all parts of the state formed a new organization to present the problems to the Governor and the Legislature.

The new organization, which received its first impetus in Lorain-co will be called the Ohio association of County, Municipal and Township governments. More than 20 counties were represented at the meeting, and the cooperation of officials from non-attending counties was urged. County solicitors, auditors, treasurers, surveyors, mayors and city managers, fire and police chiefs associations, and other governmental groups were represented at the gathering of over 50 officials.

Frank Ayers, city auditor of Lorain, was elected president of the group, and Joseph Lutz, Dayton, Montgomery-co auditor, was named vice president. Phillip Goldstagle, deputy auditor in Columbus, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Needs Described

The needs of local governments were described as "critical" by Mayor Henry Worley, of Columbus, president of the League of Ohio Municipalities. In offering the cooperation of Municipalities League to the new group, he urged a united front "if all local governments are not to cease operations next year." "The Legislature must allocate from existing taxes or from new taxes sufficient sums to keep these governments going. Present revenue is insufficient," he said.

The activities of the school group in obtaining 60 per cent of sales tax revenue were cited as leaving insufficient money from that form of taxation for local governments.

A short time ago, the Columbus News Service carried a dispatch from Columbus showing that local government funds, which had anticipated in all redistributions of about $15,000,000 from sales tax collections, would be fortunate if they realized about 50 per cent of their expectations.

A committee to call on the Governor and outline the problems was named. The committee also will urge the Governor to include the tax problems in his call for the first special session of the Legislature, anticipated about the middle of September.

Committee Listed

The committee is comprised of Mayor Worley, chairman; E. E. Hagerman, Dayton, representing the Municipal Finance Officers' Association; David A. Shadle, Columbus, representing county commissioners; J. C. Mong, Akron, representing county auditors; H. G. Sours, of Akron, representing city solicitors' organization; W. J. Wright, Lorain county treasurer, representing county treasurers; W. E. Latimer, Lorain, representing Ohio Fire Fighters' Association and Edward J. Green, Steubenville, representing Ohio Police and Firemen Relief Association.

It was believed the committee will not attempt to urge any new forms of taxation or present any program on that line, but rather draw up a complete statement of the needs of local governments and submit that to the Legislature for the necessary and obvious action.

Balbo Hears Cheers on Return as Aide to Duce

Man Made Governor of Libya After His Success on Mass Flight to U. S. to be Active in Abysinnian War.

BOLZANO, Italy, Aug. 30—Cries of "Viva Balbo!" ran through Italian streets today for the first time in two years as Air Marshall Italo Balbo, Italy's "forgotten man," suddenly emerged from African obscurity to assume a leading role in his country's war plans.

Either as coordinator of Italy's African air force or head of a division of Tripolitan warriers, the famous transAtlantic flyer is to be restored to a high place in the war councils of Premier Benito Mussolini, who "kicked Balbo upstairs" into the governorship of Libya.

At Il Duce's side once more, Balbo arrived at the scene of the Italian army maneuvers here yesterday following inspection of the Rome-Paris air route. Tomorrow he is expected to join his family in Switzerland to recuperate from an attack of tropical fever before he returns to Libya.

Aides in Service

Twenty-three of the planes that Balbo guided to America — he started in the summer of 1933 with 25—are still it Italy in serviceable condition, but would be of little use in African service, since they are seaplanes. Most of the officers who flew to Chicago with him, however, have already been pressed into active service for the Abyssinian campaign.
-startk

Because of Liby'a important position next to Egypt, Balbo may be required to stay there and watch British moves, but some of his colonial troops are likely to be called upon to pay an old debt to Eritrea. In 1911-12 Eritrean troops saved the day for Italy against the Turks in Tripolitania.

Balboa was Mussolini's aviation minister when he led the trans-Atlantic flight two years ago, and when he returned, triumphant, he was made an air marshal, the highest rank in Italy's air force.

So great was Balbo's popularity then that it threatened to overshadow Il Duce's. So Mussolini "promoted" Balbo to the governorship of Libya, took over the air portfolio himself, and named Giuseppi Valle as his undersecretary for air. Since then the black-bearded Balbo has been far removed from public attention.

GIANT TOMATOES

ALLENTOWN, Pa.—Two-and-a-half-pound tomatoes on eight-foot vines is the horticultural record of Charles Schaff, 18, of this city. Schaff produced them in a back-yard garden from seed after following instructions found in a Department of Agriculture pamphlet two years ago. He has 40 plants.

HOT DOGS BARRED

GLOUCESTER, Mass. — Brier's Neckers don't want hot dogs. So set against the national delicacy are they that they obtained an injunction forbidding Arthur D. Widger from "despoiling" their exclusive summer playground with a hot dog stand. The land is "residential only" until 1935.

Make This Heirloom Quilt

Flower of Spring

PATTERN 5296

"How fresh and lovely!" would be your instant comment, if you saw this quilt, Flower of Spring, in color. The flower that inspired the design is the anemone, and though it may grow in our garden in spring, still we cherish its beauty all year round. The quilt-maker who has captured it in this design makes this possible for us. Make the flower of white, peach, pale yellow or rose on a light green or blue background—and you'll have a color picture that will prove an unending delight. Even in the making, this quilt is a joy the block is so easy to piece!

In pattern 5296 you will find the Block Chart, an illustration for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks fon a single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main-st, Circleville, O.

WABASH RAILMEN STRIKE SATURDAY

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30—Unless the government intervenes employes of the Wabash Railway company will strike at 6:30 tomorrow morning.

The strike order was issued here yesterday after "an overwhelming" strike vote cast by 4500 employes.

Unions participating are the brotherhoods of locoomtive engineers, of locomotive fieremen and enginemen and of railroad trainmen, and the order of railway conductors.

The Ann Arbor railway, a Wabash subsidiary, is also affected.

Employes charge the Wabash cut pay without negotiating with employes, and ignored the findings of the National Railway Adjustment board relative to the disagreement, suggesting that the disputes be referred to the courts.

S. E. Cotter, chief operating officer of the road, declared today: "We won't shut down the railroad."

He said he would not ask federal intervention.

Special Music On Camp Meet Program

The Gross band of Chicago, Ill., a musical organization comprised of 14 members will play at the Mount of Praise the remainder of the camp meeting sessions this week. Besides being an instrumental organization they are also gospel singers.

An unusual musical treat was presented at the service Thursday night. Wilmos Cschy, a former concert violinist, presented a number of selections accompanied by Mrs. Cschy, pianist. Mr. Cschy told members he was born and educated in Hungary and the violin on which he played was 250 years old.

The evangelistic services Thursday evening were in charge of Rev. Charles Slater. Rev. T. M. Anderson of Wilmore, Ky., one of the evangelists, was called to his home Thursday because of the serious illness of his son. He plans to return to the camp grounds Sunday for the concluding service.

Rev. E. H. Stillion will preach at 11 a. m. and 8:15 p. m. Saturday and Sunday. Rev. Charles Slater will preach at the afternoon services at 2:30 o'clock.

YOUNG STEER GONE FROM FAIR STALL

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30.—Nine hundred pounds of beef in the form of a young steer went astray at the Ohio State fair grounds yesterday afternoon and created not only a commotion of sorts but just about brought tears to the eyes of a youthful exhibitor.

John Evans of Woodstock had brought his pet steer to the fair for exhibition. As he was going on to Washington, he left the steer in care of Hartsel Besgrove, of Milford Center, whose entry also occupied a nearby stall at the grounds.

Yesterday afternoon, Hartsel returned to the stalls, found his own steer reposing quietly, but the other animal left in his charge was gone. All that was left was the halter. The youngster reported the loss to officials in a voice choking with emotion. As yet, no sign of the missing animal has been found.

AMANDA

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Scholl of Owensboro, Ky., have returned to their home after spending their vacation with relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Alten and family of Columbus visited Monday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hedges.

The Young People's Sunday school class of the M. E. church held its annual picnic at the home of Misses Mildred and Edith Spung. Twenty members enjoyed the outing.

Mrs. Ray Hyatt and children, Ann and John Sidney, of Columbus, are the house guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Merz.

Miss Virginia Myers has returned to Columbus after spending a few days with her aunt, Mrs. Edward Phillips and family.

Franklin Williamson, of Lancaster, and Virgil and Earl Hedges are spending this week at Indian lake. Earl Hedges will also visit his aunt, Mrs. John Ellis and family of Marseilles.

Carl Merz and Leo Stiles are spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Rothwell of Columbus and attending the state fair.

Plans are being completed for the annual band social to be held Saturday, Aug. 31, starting at 5 o'clock. The committee in charge assures those who plan to attend that there will be plenty of fried chicken. This will be the last concert of the season and the last time Arnold Hoffman, the bandmaster, will be in charge as he is leaving for his new assignment near Akron. The new bandmaster, Brooks Franks of Wooster, an Ohio University graduate, will also be at this concert.

The annual reunion of the Waites family was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Waites, east of Amanda. A basket dinner was served under a large tent to over 100 relatives from various towns including Bedford, Ind., Mt. Orab, Groveport, Canal Winchester, Ashville and Bryan.

nonstop from Japan to the United States in 1931.

Forced Down Before

On that hazardous flight Allen was near death when the plane in which he was flying with Moyle from Boboshiro beach in Japan, was forced down on the lonely Aleutian islands by fuel trouble—the same trouble which is believed to have caused his death today.

Allen's plane plunged into a plowed field, carrying its pilot to instant death, six other men and two women—the premier aviators of the United States—were speeding over the western mountains in the Bendix trophy race.

Near-disaster marked the start of two other contestants in the race.

Two Near Crashes

Col. Roscoe Turner, holder of the transcontinental record of 10 hours and 2 minutes, lifted his rebuilt Wedell-Williams racer from the ground after a false start had sent chills racing down the spines of more than 10,000 people gathered to witness the start of the race.

A few minutes Jacqueline Cochran, New York sportswoman flyer, was so near disaster as her plane wobbled near the end of the runway, that ambulances and fire equipment was rushed onto the field before she succeeded in lifting her ship from the ground.

While Allen was plunging to his death, Amelia Earhart Putnam, who with Paul Mantz as co-pilot was the first to leave here in the dash eastward, was landing at Albuquerque, N. M., to refuel. Radio reports said she set her ship down there at 5:41 a. m., PST.

At 6:40 a. m., the radio station at the field told of the landing of Miss Cochran at Kingman, Ariz. No details were given and airport attendants were at a loss to explain the landing because Miss Cochran, with 590 gallons of gasoline, had intended to fly nonstop to Cleveland and possibly to New York.

Fog Causes Delay

Fog had added to the hazards of the start of the race. After Miss Earhart, Roy Hunt and Benny Howard had gotten away, the fog swept in from the ocean, shortly after 2:10 a. m., and the remaining planes were held grounded for more than an hour. It was not until 3:40 that Royal Leonard lifted his ship into the air.

Turner followed Leonard, and then in quick order Russell Thaw, Earl Ortman and Mrs. Cochran took the air.

In addition to the prize of $10,000 to be awarded for the winner of the dash to Cleveland, Bendix has posted an additional $2,500 to the pilot who succeeds in bettering Turner's record to New York.

To win this prize, an official recognition of a new record, the distance from coast to coast must be flown in 9 hours and 44 minutes or better.

Before she left the field here Mrs. Putnam declared she was not competing for any of the cash awards at stake, but declared she did hope to establish a new record.

MONROE TWP.

The Five Points ball team won another game Sunday, when it handed the Adelphi team the short end of a 11 to 5 count. The boys will play the Columbus Braves next Sunday on the home ground. Sollars and Friend were the batteries for the Five Pointers. This is seven victories out of nine games.

Kenneth Walters had a tonsil operation last week.

Several from here are attending the camp meeting at Circleville.

Robert Dick and Frederick McCoy left last week for several weeks stay up in Michigan and Canada.

Miss Medrith Terflinger has been on the sick list, but is much better at this time.

The Davis reunion will be held Monday Sept. 2nd at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Alkire in Five Points.

The Long reunion will be held at the home of Mrs. Emma Long near Darbyville Sunday Sept. 1st.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Christian church will meet next Wednesday Sept. 4th at the hall. All members are urged to be present as important business is on hand.

Miss Margaret Dick of Columbus spent the weekend at her home near Five Points.

School begins Monday Sept. 2nd.

Queen Killed, King Injured in Automobile Crash

King Leopold, Queen Astrid and their children.

Queen Astrid of Belgium

Tragedy struck the royal family of Belgium when Queen Astrid of the Belgians, daughter of King Gustav of Sweden, was killed and King Leopold was injured when an auto, driven by the king, skidded off the road near Kussnacht, along Lake Lucerne in Switzerland. It was just 18 months ago that Leopold's father, King Albert, fell to his death while climbing a mountain peak. Recent pictures of the king and queen, and their three children are shown above. The children are Crown Prince Baudoin, Princess Josephine and Prince Albert, the baby.

Europe Pays Homage to Young Queen Of Belgians, Victim of Motor Wreck

BRUSSELS, Aug. 30.—The gray walls of Belgium's royal palace echoed again to the sobs and shuffling feet of thousands of mourners as the covered coffin of Queen Astrid lay today in the "Salon of the Thinker," where homage was paid to King Albert only 18 months ago.

All through the night the crushed body of the Queen was borne by express train from Lake Lucerne, Switzerland, on whose shores her 29 years of life ended in an automobile crash yesterday.

King Leopold, her husband, his arm and head swathed in bandages, and Paul Van Zeeland, young premier of Belgium, rode in the second car of the funeral train.

Stations Crowded

Every station platform as the express flashed by down the Rhine valley and through Luxembourg was crowded with peasants. Cabinet ministers joined the train when it entered Belgian soil at Arlon, and then wound through the Ardennes mountains, where the beloved Albert fell to his death.

The great square in front of north station in Brussels was packed with grieving subjects when the black-draped train ground to a halt. Army generals carried the coffin to an automobile hearse, and the dead Queen was driven slowly through the streets lined with soldiers and jammed with civilians to the palace that had been her home since she and Leopold were married nine years ago.

King Leopold had left the train at a suburban station, hurrying to the palace ahead of the funeral cortege to change into formal clothes to meet the coffin.

King Leopold was left for half an hour in solitary mourning with Astrid. The coffin was opened at his request, but closed again when he left.

It was understood that the queen's head was bandaged, just as King Albert's had been, but her face was unmarked.

Four generals were then stationed around the bier. Colors of Belgium, Switzerland, and Astrid's homeland, Sweden, were folded over the casket, candles lighted, and masses of flowers crowded around the room.

The queen's ladies in waiting filed through the salon first, then the king's military and civil household, followed by an interminable line of civilians, who had waited all night after the first news of the tragedy rocked the capital.

Widow Hurries Home

Dowager Queen Elizabeth, frail and grief-stricken by the accidental death of Albert, hurried to Brussels from Italy by another train. Astrid's parents, Prince Carl and Princess Ingebord of Sweden, came by airplane from Stockholm.

The funeral will be held Tuesday, and crowned heads, statesmen, and diplomats from all over Europe will attend the rites, bringing together the greatest assemblage of mourners since the funeral of the assassinated King Alexander of Yugoslavia.

ASHVILLE

DISPELLING THE FOG

By CHARLES MICHELSON

ACCORDING to Representative O'Connor of New York, between twenty and twenty-five million dollars was spent on propaganda against the holding company bill. The New York Congressman further quoted one of the holding company magnates to the effect that there would have been spent six billion dollars to stop the measure.

Nobody can advance that these magnates are pikers when it comes to spending their stockholders' money to preserve an agency that gave a couple of millions in salaries and bonuses to one of them during the depression when the companies paid no dividends to stockholders. The question arises, how much are these generous philanthrophies giving to the Republican campaign funds? They did not stop the holding company bill, so their next enterprise is to stop President Roosevelt. Theoretically we ought to be able to answer the financial question by reference to the G. O. P.'s reports to the Clerk of the House of Representatives. There are people (as recent court records show) in the Pennsylvania mountains who believe in witchcraft; there is a community in the United States that believes the earth is flat, but is there anybody in this great credulous country of ours who believes that the official reports will show anything of the sort?

In newspaper circles they speak of a twenty million campaign fund pledged to the G. O. P. Whatever is the actual amount, it is plenty. Undoubtedly the party of Mr. Hoover will be able to spend dollars where the Democrats spend dimes, though there may be a question if most of that party is willing to spend it for Mr. Hoover. Their National Committee is organizing half a dozen sectional bureaus. Their affiliated organizations, like the Liberty League, with its impressive directors list of multi-millionaires, are being equally lavish.

I notice, incidentally, that this latter non-partisan group of patriots is projecting an expression of opinion on the constitutionality of recent legislation of fifty eminent law firms. It is enlightening to realize that most of these eminent attorneys so far mentioned represent the same corporations that signed names, taken at large from telephone directories, to some hundreds of thousands of telegrams to Congressmen. The daily showers of telegrams were to show how the mighty mass of people was in revolt over the measure aimed to stop the Hopsons and the Insulls from continuing to harvest—without rendering any service—the dividends that would otherwise go to the stockholders of the operating utility companies. Others of this strictly impartial and judicial section of the bar have already pronounced their opinions for their clients, political or otherwise. It is inspiring to think of the disinterestedness of James M. Beck, who got a $35,000 fee from President McCarter of the Edison Electric Institute, and Robert McCarter, the other McCarter's brother, and Forney Johnson, whose firm got $50,000 from the same source, and Frank Hogan, attorney for Mellon and Doheny, and John W. Davis, chief lawyer for the J. P. Morgan firm, and ex-Senator Davis A. Reed, to name only a few members of the unprejudiced group.

But to get back to the Republican plans. Who is to be chosen to carry the banner for the party next year? Will it be Vandenberg, who cited the opinions of some of the more eminent of his lawyer group on the floor of the Senate? Will it be Col. Frank Knox, who is doing the heavy organizing for the nomination? What will happen to Mr. Hoover if the Republican National Convention passes him up?

Editor Knox is the most interesting of the candidates at present. The other day a correspondent asked him how he reconciled his opposition to certain New Deal principles with his strong espousal of them when they were presented by Theodore Roosevelt in the Bull Moose campaign. If anybody does not think his editor is a statesman, let him read this part of his reply to his questioner:

"The difference between Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin Roosevelt is that Theodore was a statesman, who proposed to achieve the reforms he regarded as necessary within the framework of the Constitution and without impairing the integrity of the Constitution. The present Roosevelt is a self-seeking man without the capacity to understand, apparently, and wholly in different to the effects of the vast changes he proposes in the fabric of our Government."

My fellow columnist, Mark Sullivan, indicates that he sees the solution of the G. O. P. dilemma in a third party movement, which he thinks might alienate enough votes from Franklin Roosevelt in the South to give a Republican a chance. Well, the Richmond Times-Dispatch had a poll of Virginia, where Mr. Sullivan appears to think the anti-Roosevelt spirit is most vibrant, and the result showed 84 per cent of the voters for the President. A similar poll in the Republican end of North Carolina the tenth and eleventh Congressional districts—gave the President 68 per cent of the votes, which is 10 per cent more than he got in 1932.

That by way of parenthesis. To return to the interesting matter of Col. Knox's candidacy. He publishes a newspaper in Chicago, and is loved by his competing publishers, Wm. Randolph Hearst, and Col. McCormick of the Tribune, with the fervor that goes with such a situation. Mr. Hearst in particular must have strong feelings on the subject. Perhaps he remembers the times he sought a Presidential nomination and got no newspaper support but his own. Colonel Knox used to be a Hearst employe. At that time the newspaper world expected Mr. Hearst to gobble up the Chicago Daily News, which was in difficulties, and so rid himself of the only real competition he had in the evening newspaper field in Chicago. Instead of which Colonel Knox jumped the traces and bought the News for himself and rebuilt it into eminence and, perhaps, prosperity.

More to the point, Mr. Hearst has already selected his Republican presidential candidates. He travels report that in the order named these are his nominations: Senator Hiram Johnson, Senator Borah, and Senator Norris. In general these have voted, as did most of the Republican Progressives in Congress, for the New Deal measures which Mr. Hearst most strongly opposes. The Nation in its issue of August 28, reproduces his general orders to his newspapers, and the news service he supplies. Readers of the Hearst press will observe how accurately these instructions are being carried out.

I do not know if any of the three Senators has been consulted on the subject.

The California Senator and the Nebraska Senator both supported Franklin Roosevelt in the 1932 election. The Idaho Senator took little part, though he adhered to his technical Republicanism in his public attitude. Perhaps Mr. Hearst, in favoring these three Progressives, may take a leaf out of Colonel Knox's philosophy, which roughly is that if Roosevelt adopts certain policies, they are wrong; if anybody else advocates them, they are right.

CHAPTER 31

MISS BOISEVAIN was much weaker that morning. She talked in a whisper, unable to raise her voice. Now and then a spasm of pain flicked across her face.

Janet could hardly imagine that this was the same woman she had seen sitting in the chair when she first came into the room . . . the woman with the strong, proud voice; the woman with her shoulders erect and straight. She missed the golden chain from Miss Boisevain's neck . . . and the chameleon.

"It is gone . . . dead," the woman whispered, answering the girl's unasked question. "Gone, dead, as I shall be soon. Last night was too much for it." A sigh shook her body.

"Did you hear the piano last night, child?"

Janet nodded.

"Did it frighten . . . you?"

The girl nodded.

"I'm sorry . . . child. Will you bring me that little box in the drawer of that table?" Her eyes indicated the table by her side.

Janet obediently opened the drawer, and pulled out a lapis lazuli box.

"Open it. You will find a miniature of me, painted when I was a girl."

There were several miniatures in the box, besides some letters and a tarnished silver vial. The thought flashed through Janet's brain that this was the vial containing poison! Gingerly, she picked up one of the miniatures. It was very small, scarcely two inches across, and fitted into a narrow gold frame which was studded with tiny emeralds.

The hair she recognized. Red curls piled high on the wide, girlish face, hair too heavy even then for the strong features. . . . Miss Boisevain when she was a girl. True, there was nothing beautiful about the face, nothing lovely, but Janet liked the small eyes which seemed to look into hers . . . something true . . . honest, about them.

"Show it to me, child."

Miss Boisevain viewed the miniature silently, as Janet held it near her. She said nothing for a long time, but when Janet looked at her, she saw tears falling down the yellow cheeks and sliding softly onto the white pillow.

"Yes, that was Morelle Boisevain when she was 17. Seventeen, child, before I ran away from this house, before I knew what the world was holding in store for me. Morelle Boisevain at 17 . . . you'd hardly recognize her, would you?"

"It seems a very good likeness to me," Janet assured her, but when she said it, she thought how white the skin on the miniature was . . . white and glowing with life; and then how yellow and sickly the skin of the woman lying near her. . . .

Idly, Janet picked up another miniature . . . that of an elderly man, with grayish red hair, and a thick, red beard. There seemed a malevolent gleam in his eyes.

"My father," Miss Boisevain murmured, softly.

"Open it."

But this was not the face Janet had seen in the crystal . . . that was a young face . . . and the eyes, while similar, were not the same. Of course, the man in the crystal had red hair . . . but it was not the same as this beautifully painted miniature.

"My father. . . ."

"But his was not the face I saw in the crystal," Janet ventured.

"No?"

There was still another miniature . . . a painting of a man with dark eyes and black hair . . . a young man. It was framed in the same manner as the others.

Miss Boisevain reached weakly for it, and after looking at it for a moment, placed it at her side.

A lover, Janet thought. A lover she had not married, and was sorry now.

The girl was about to close the box, when the sick woman asked for the letters which were on the bottom. She wanted them under her pillow, and Janet put them there, half tenderly.

"Is there nothing more in the box?"

"Yes, a large ruby . . . and a silver vial," Janet said.

"You may have the stone, child. It is yours. The vial you may have, too. It will serve you well, perhaps, if you stay on in this house. Keep it with you always. You will know when to use it."

"I . . . I can't take them, Miss Boisevain . . . neither of them."

"You must . . . I like you. You have been like a daughter to me while you've been here. You must take them. You may need . . . the vial!"

"But I'm not going to stay, Miss Boisevain. I am going away!"

Miss Boisevain closed her eyes. Janet thought she saw her head shake, in sad negation.

"Perhaps you have a lucky star, child, luckier than mine. I was born under a frightful planet. Only a little happiness in my life . . . just a little. But it was taken from me so soon. . . . You have been unhappy, too, child. I see it in your eyes. They are tired, too tired for a girl's eyes. You, too, have suffered. I have tried to read your eyes many times, but they are too strong for me, too strong. They elude me. I cannot tell what your future will be. I am weak. I have been for years.

"I am lame. . . ."

Battle Over Cotton Subsidy Shows Economic Struggle in South

WASHINGTON — Behind the last minute squabble over wheat and cotton subsidies which delayed adjournment of Congress was penetrating, bitter drama.

It revealed the fact that the staunchest pillars of Southern Democracy are a long way from being with their chieftain in the White House. It cut to the roots of the economic future of the South. It raised the question of whether King Cotton long can reign supreme over his domain.

Groundwork for the drama began months ago when Senators Bankhead of Alabama, "Cotton Ed" Smith of South Carolina, George of Georgia and other cotton Senators received assurances from Roosevelt that they need not worry about the cotton loan, that farmers would get twelve cents for their cotton.

Whether Roosevelt said that the 12-cent cotton loan would be continued or merely that farmers would get twelve cents per pound on their crop is now a matter of grave debate and misunderstanding.

At any rate, the Senators say they understood the former, and on the strength of this "Cotton Ed," Chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee, forgot his aversion to the AAA and pushed the AAAmendments; while other Senators tipped off their cotton and textile friends that the 12-cent loan would continue.

AAA Opposition

About this time, however, Henry Wallace and Chester Davis, AAAdministrator, stepped into the picture.

They objected strenuously to continuation of the 12-cent loan, registered two main arguments to support their objections:

1. By 1936, the accumulation of cotton stocks in Government hands would be great enough to break the market, hurting both farmers and mill owners in the long run.

2. Other sections of the country, claiming cotton was favored, would demand price guarantees for wheat, corn, tobacco, potatoes and so on.

So Roosevelt told Davis and Wallace to cook up some plan which would ward off these catastrophes, yet save his face in regard to promises made to Southern Senators.

Thereupon Oscar Johnston, head of the Government's 'cotton pool, concocted the 9-cent loan plus a subsidy to farmers based upon the average four-month cotton price from September 1 to January 1. This would net the farmer about three cents additional—or a total of twelve cents.

Too Much Speed

The plan was thrust forward hurriedly to quiet highly speculative market and in order to force the President to commit himself definitely before he yielded to Southern pressure.

Even so, Wallace and Davis had a hard time putting their compromise across.

Roosevelt, who knows nothing about cotton, but thinks he knows a lot, wanted to stick by his Southern Senatorial friends. The latter had told him with considerable emphasis that Wallace and Davis "were corn-hog men who didn't know a—thing about cotton."

So Wallace and Davis pulled in big gun support. They brought up Henry Morgenthau, Jesse Jones, who puts up the money for cotton loans, plus the entire Credit Commodity Corporation, which functions under Jesse.

All painted a dark picture. They pointed to growing cotton production in Brazil, Egypt, Russia, Argentina. They claimed that the high price in the United States was encouraging this competition. They pointed to Hoover's disaster when he tried to uphold the price of wheat. They warned that it was best to ease down the price gradually, thereby selling more cotton abroad.

So the President yielded.

Unconstitutional

But here he and his advisers made two strategic mistakes. First, they might have continued a straight 12-cent loan and let the Supreme Court declare the Bankhead Bill unconstitutional, as it probably will do. In this case, Wallace's end would have been achieved, while Roosevelt would have received additional public support for his election campaign issue of "constitutionality."

Second, they might have delayed announcing the 9-cent compromise until the day after Congress adjourned. As it happened, the announcement came a few days before, causing a political hurricane from the cotton belt that is still blowing, and a prolongation of the Congressional session.

Southern Senators remembered the President's 12-cent loan pledges, were irate and wrathy. Senator George told friends he would never again cross the White House doorstep. Senators Byrnes of South Carolina, Harrison of Mississippi and Robinson of Arkansas were up against the prospect of defeat in the coming election.

There followed the cotton-wheat deadlock in Congress and the compromise of a 10-cent loan plus a 2-cent subsidy to farmers.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Not since his triumph in "Scarface," has George Raft had a role so admirably suited to his talents as in Paramount's "The Glass Key", the new Dashiell Hammett thriller at the Clifton a Theatre.

This newest film from the pen of the man who wrote "The Thin Man" presents George Raft as a close-mouthed, hard-fisted citizen, a sort of prime minister to a great city's big-shot politician, Edward Arnold.

Told in Hammett's inimitable style, the picture blends romance, drama, love interest and a corking murder mystery to furnish unadulterated entertainment.

It all revolves about Arnold's political fortunes. The strong man of the city's administration, he suddenly clamps down on night life and acquires a group of new enemies.

AT THE CIRCLE

Sterling Holloway, contributing generously to the fun in "Advice to the Lovelorn," starring Lee Tracy with Sally Blane at the Circle Theatre tonight is one comedian who uses neither jokes nor gags to make people laugh. His method is a tired voice expressing an indecisive mind.

Holloway wanted to be a tragedian. His teacher at Sargent's Dramatic School in New York asked, "Have you ever looked at yourself in a mirror?"

AT THE GRAND

Poems That Live

FOUR-LEAF CLOVER

I know a place where the sun is like gold,
And the cherry blossoms burst with snow,
And down underneath is the loveliest nook,
Where the four-leaf clovers grow.

One leaf is for hope, and one is for faith,
And one is for love, you know,
And God put another in for luck,—
If you search, you will find where they grow.

But you must have hope, and you must have faith,
You must love and be strong—and so,
If you work if you wait, you will find the place
Where the four-leaf clovers grow.

What to Do to Prepare Young Child for School

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE LITTLE FELLOW is going to school today—for the first time. He's five now—the baby days are behind him. Life begins in earnest.

He is to have tasks. He must prove himself. More important than anything else, he will meet competition. He will begin to associate with his fellows.

Dr. Clendening

How will he stand the test? It is a frightening thought, but also an ennobling one—a stimulus for all of his parents and well-wishers.

Certainly he should have every chance to do it well. His body, as well as his mind, will be tested. And he must try to realize the old Greek ideal—"mens sanus in corpore sano."

Now, I am not one of those who thinks that the little fellow should be overhauled like an automobile about to take a journey, before going to school. If he is plainly healthy, with a wholesome mind and understanding, delighting in play and activity, I certainly do not think it is necessary to send him to a jury of specialists in dentistry, and nose and throating, and heart and lungsery, any eyes and earsery, and everything else. Lots of us went to school before the word "orthodontia" was invented, and some of us did very well. Not that these fellows are not useful in their places, and when their time comes—but it seems to me sometimes we fuss too much with the machine.

Things to Remember

But there are some things which most evidently should be remembered for the little fellow before he starts his first day in school. Your family physician will give you all the advice you need about special treatments.

First, let's be sure he can see and hear well. He has never had these senses really tested in his baby days. No one would notice if he were near-sighted: he himself would not know what it means. Now he has to hear questions distinctly and begin to decipher letters and words. Perhaps he has a slight eye defect or is just a little under normal in hearing. And he might go and fall behind in classes and nobody understand why, with his bright, eager brain.

Then, let us remember his many new human contacts. He has been comparatively alone, up to now. Suddenly he is thrown with several hundred children. Some of them may be just coming down with a contagious disease. Some come from households where there has been diphtheria—they may, all unwittingly, so far as they or their parents are concerned, be carrying around some of the germs in their own mouths or throats. So let us immunize the little fellow to diphtheria, typhoid fever and smallpox, perhaps whooping cough, before we send him off.

We will discuss details in the following articles this week.

DISHES FOR COLD SUPPER MENUS

Salmon In An Unusual Hors D'Oeuvres As First Course for The Sunday Night Supper

To make the salmon hors d'oeuvres use: six hard cooked eggs; one can red salmon; two pickles; one half cup mayonnaise; one tablespoon finely minced onion and juice; tabasco sauce; a little salt and pepper to season; two tablespoons gelatine; two bouillon cubes; a tablespoon parsley; two chopped carrots; three tablespoons finely minced celery and a little minced celery leaves.

Split the hard cooked eggs in halves lengthwise. Mash yolks fine. Mince the salmon which is freed of bones and skin and beat into the mashed egg yolk. Add the two chopped pickles, onion juice, and seasonings, and stuff into the whites of the eggs. Dissolve the gelatine in one half cup of warm water. Dissolve the bouillon cubes in two cups of boiling water and heat with the parsley and carrots. Strain over the gelatine and let all cool.

Place the eggs in small fancy molds with the stuffed side uppermost. Pour a little of the bouillon mixture over each. Sprinkle with minced celery and celery leaves. Pour in more bouillon. Let chill until firm. Turn out on a small lettuce leaf. Top with mayonnaise.

Frozen Salad

One cup canned salmon; one cup mayonnaise; one cup whipping cream; one cup finely minced celery; one tablespoon lemon juice; one large green pepper, chopped fine; one pimiento chopped fine; one tablespoon finely minced parsley; one teaspoon onion juice; one teaspoon salt. Mix dry ingredients lightly with fork. Add lemon and onion juices. Whip cream stiff and fold in the mayonnaise. Mix all together. Pack into the refrigerator tray or into a mould and chill at least three hours at low temperature. Slice and serve on crisp lettuce, with a little mayonnaise. Or slice and serve as part of cold meat platter.

Molded Fruits

Two tablespoons gelatine; one half cup cold water; two tablespoons sugar; one fourth cup lemon juice; one and one half cups gingerale; one half cup chopped pineapple; one half cup stoned cherries; one half cup other small berries or orange sections; one half cup chopped nuts; mayonnaise and crisp lettuce.

Soak the gelatine in the cold water. Add sugar and dissolve over hot water. Let cool. Add lemon juice and gingerale. When thickened and beginning to set, add the fruit and nuts, and pour into small fancy molds, or one large mold. Place in refrigerator. Unmold when firm. Garnish with small curls of mayonnaise.

My father and his father were farmers, Americana. I know of no prouder title. They loved their country and obeyed its laws.—Federal Judge M. E. Otis, answering threats of violence from farmers infuriated by foreclosure sales.

Pineapple Raisin Ice Cream

One and one half cups milk; two tablespoons granulated tapioca.. two tablespoons sugar; one half pint whipping cream; one half teaspoon grated orange rind; one cup seedless raisins; one cup crushed pineapple one eighth teaspoon salt; two teaspoons vanilla.

Cook tapioca with milk in top of double boiler about ten minutes, strain over the sugar and salt, but do not rub the tapioca through the sieve. Boil raisins 5 minutes, drain and cool. Whip cream until stiff. When milk is cold, combine with raisins, pineapple, orange rind, and whipped cream. Blend thoroughly. Pour into refrigerator pan and freeze. Stir well after first half hour. Unmold and slice after about three hours. Serves six to eight.

Orange Ice Cream

One cup evaporated milk; one half teaspoon gelatine; one tablespoon cold water; one cup chopped nuts; one cup milk; three fourths cup sugar; one tablespoon cornstarch; one egg; two teaspoons grated orange rind; three fourths cup orange juice; two tablespoon lemon juice.

Scald evaporated milk. Soften gelatine in cold water and dissolve in hot milk. Chill. Scald three fourths cup of milk; blend sugar and cornstarch with milk, egg yolk, and then add to milk. Stir constantly until thick and smooth. Add orange rind, cool, and add orange and lemon juice. Whip chilled evaporated milk until stiff, add orange custard, raisins, and mix thoroughly. Pour into refrigerator pan and freeze. Stir after it has been in refrigerator one half hour. Serves six to eight.

Raisin Parfait

One cup evaporated milk; one half teaspoon granulated gelatine; one tablespoon cold water; one cup raisins; one half cup white table syrup.. two egg whites; one teaspoon vanilla; one eighth teaspoon maple flavoring.

Scald milk in double boiler. Soften gelatine in cold water and dissolve in hot milk Chill, and beat until stiff. Boil raisins five minutes, drain and cool. Boil syrup until it spins a thread, then pour over stiffly beaten egg whites and beat until cold. Add flavorings, and combine with whipped milk. Pour into refrigerator pan and freeze. Makes six parfaits.

Chocolate Ice Cream

One cup black walnut kernels; one cup milk; one third cup sugar; one square chocolate; one tablespoon cornstarch; one eighth teaspoon salt; one eighth teaspoon cinnamon; one teaspoon vanilla; one half pint whipping cream.

Cut chocolate in pieces and mix with sugar, cornstarch, salt and cinnamon. Moisten with a little cold milk and stir into remaining milk which has been heated in double boiler. Continue stirring until chocolate is melted and custard is clear. Add vanilla and cool. Beat cream until stiff and combine with chocolate mixture and nuts. Pour into refrigerator pan and freeze three hours. Stir after first half hour. Serves six.

Moderns couldn't endure the old-fashioned two-hour dinner. They couldn't stop smoking that long.

Nourishing Dishes For Early Autumn

When corn is in its golden glory is an excellent time to serve corn chowder. Youngsters will like it for lunch, and the entire family will relish it for supper.

Corn Chowder

5 C. corn pulp
6 C. potatoes, diced
¼ tsp. pepper
1½ onion, diced
3 Tbsp. butter
3 oz. salt pork, diced
¾ tsp. paprika
2¼ C. boiling water
3 C. milk

Brown the pork in a pan and add the onion. Add boiling water, corn, seasonings and potatoes. Cover and bake at 375 degrees for 1½ hours. Add the butter and scalded milk, and serve at once.

Chicken Loaf

To utilize leftovers to the greatest advantage make them into appetizing servings like this chicken loaf:

3 C. chicken
1½ C. peas
1 C. carrots
1½ C. stale bread crumbs
1 C. milk
2 egg yolks
2 tsp. salt
2 tsp. onion juice
1 tsp. lemon juice

Place cold, leftover chicken and mixed vegetables in baking pan after first combining ingredients thoroughly. Bake at 400 degrees for 45 minutes.

Peach Pudding

Peach pudding is a welcome dessert and a different way of using the fruit which is so plentiful at this season.

Sift 2 cups flour, ½ tsp. salt, 4 Tbsp. sugar and 4 tsp. baking powder in a bowl. Add 4 Tbsp. butter, cut it into the flour mixture and blend thoroughly. Beat 1 egg and add it with ⅔ C. milk to the first mixture. Add the fruit, measuring 1 cup fresh peaches, which have been cut up fine. Mix well and turn into greased custard cups, and place in a shallow pan of hot water. Bake 30 minutes at 400 degrees.

Special Baked Potato

3 large baked potatoes
¾ C. hot milk
2 Tbsp. hot butter
1 tsp. salt
1 C. cream sauce
½ C. chopped bologna
Fried apple slices
Paprika
Parsley

Scoop out potatoes and mash. Add milk, butter and salt. Combine cream sauce and bologna. Fill potato shells with creamed mixture. Cover with mashed potato and brown in oven (400 degrees) about 15 minutes. Serve with apple slices. Garnish with parsley and paprika.

LOVES TO EAT THIS CEREAL, IT CHECKED HER CONSTIPATION*

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Helped Miss Kesterke

We quote from her letter: "Three years ago, I became constipated.* I tried many laxatives. But as soon as I got used to each kind, I began to get the same trouble.

"Last summer I was on my vacation. They served Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I just loved it. I eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every morning and ever since I have not had to take any more laxatives." Miss Margaret Kesterke, Cresskill, N. J.

*Due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also rich in vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle. It resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables, so it is often more effective.

Isn't this food safer than risking patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. If seriously constipated, use with each meal. See your doctor, if you do not get relief.

Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

THESE COOL DRINKS

Current Mint Frappe

Two tablespoons chopped mint; three cups boiling water; one third cup orange juice one eighth glass currant jelly; one drop oil peppermint; one teaspoon gelatine; two tablespoons cold water.

Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes and dissolve it with the currant jelly over hot water. Cool, add other ingredients and freeze slightly, stirring every twenty minutes. When mushy serve in tall glasses with spoon and straw. Garnish with fresh mint leaves for good effect. Four or five glasses.

Tea Punch

Three quarts water; three cups sugar; one cup strong, freshly made tea; juice one dozen oranges; one dozen lemons; one dozen limes (half for juice, half for slicing); one small bottle gingerale; one pint raspberry or strawberry or red grape juice. Blend all juices; boil water and sugar eight minutes. Cool, add to juices, chill and blend with tea and gingerale. Garnish each glass with sliced lime. Serves thirty to forty people.

Beverage Accessories

Equip the beverage counter in your kitchen with the best fruit juice extractor available; an electric one if possible, or one of those which turn a handle and ream the halved fruit. Sometimes a strainer is necessary to remove seeds and fibers. A large glass pitcher or enameled kettle with long handled stirring spoon aids the process; tall beverage glasses, glass stirring rods or spoons; straws; a tray; probably small castors on which to stand the glasses. You need a sharp, stainless steel knife for cubes may be crushed easily in one of the new patent crushers, on sale cutting fruit and slicing also. Ice in most kitchenware departments.

Marian Martin Patterns

Complete Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart Included.

PATTERN 9244

Whether you're just a "right" housekeeper, or an old-fashioned one who still keeps a cookie jar in the pantry, this charming house or porch frock will appeal strongly, for it's as thrifty as it is smart. Wearing it you will be dainty for breakfast, smart to go to market, or answer a surprise call at the door, without feeling flustered or untidy. Its lines are plain, simple and extremely slenderizing, while surplice closing and sleeves go in for button accented scallops. Note how shoulder darts make a nicely turned shoulder, and release fullness only where necessary. Make it in percale or other colorful cotton. Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9244 may be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4 yards 36 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Send your order to The Herald, Pattern Department, 124 W. Main-st. Circleville, Ohio.

MADE in standard Square and Round style or with Special Wide Mouth when preferred.

FREE 64 page recipe and canning book on request.

PROVE BETTER THAN YOUTHS

Manders' Field Goal, Shepherd's Safety Provide Margin Before 77,450.

CHICAGO, Aug. 0 - Smart professional football is superior to the brand stimulated by the "Die for dear old Rutgers" spirit.

The Chicago Bears, playing for naught but sordid paychecks, demonstrated that before 77,450 spectators here last night when they out-smarted and out-played the collegiate all-stars, battling for honor and glory, 5 to 0.

The score is scarcely indicative of the superiority of the Bears over the cream of the nation's collegiate gridiron talent, chosen for this game by a nation-wide poll of fans.

Early in the first quarter the Bears crashed their way along Soldiers' field to the all-star's two yard line, largely through the efforts of Beattie Feathers. However, Bill Shepherd of Western Maryland who later was to be a goat, provided the heroics by breaking through the line and stopping the on-rushing Bears. A 15-yard penalty for holding set the Bears further back whereupon Jack Manders swung his educated toe and place-kicked for three points.

Stopped In Drives

From thereon the Bears crumbled and crunched their way toward the collegiate goal line time and again, only to lose the ball for one reason or another and see Shepherd loft it out of danger.

It rained throughout the second half, and the quarterbacks were content to resort to a kicking game.

The all-stars closest threat came at the outset of the fourth quarter when Shepherd tossed a pass to Hutson good for 17 yards, and then scampered 19 yards to the Bears' 8-yard line. But the Pros stiffened and the collegians lost the ball on downs.

The game then reverted again to a punting duel with the Bears having the best of it and finally working the ball to the all-star 8-yard line. The collegians took the ball on downs but on the first play the pass from center was high and Shepherd fumbled behind the goal line, recovering the ball for a safety, giving the Bears two points and a total of five, the winning margin.

Shepherd was the big gun for the college lads, capably aided by Kostka of Minnesota, Nichelini of St. Mary's of California and Hutson of Alabama.

Team-Work Stressed

The professionals played with their usual team-work, though the smashing of Manders, the running of Feathers and Sisk, and the punting of Pollock was outstanding.

The all-stars were coached b y Frank Thomas of Alabama, Charley Bachman of Michigan State, Doc Spears of Wisconsin and Slip Madigan of St. Mary's, all chosen by a vote of fans.

TRACY HANOVER WINS FOR SHORT

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30.—Harness racing enthusiasts today prepared for the fifth day of activities at the state fairgrounds where a crowd of 12,000 saw the Irish combination of Kelly and Pat O'Connell win the annual Governor's Stake, headline event of the week.

Kelly, a North Randall horse owned and driven by O'Connell, stepped away from a brilliant field of Ohio's three-year old trotters to win two of the three heats in the Governor's race of $1,500. Tim S. won the second heat of the headliner while Kelly took a second.

Driven by Harry Short

The Neil House Stake of $600 went to Tracy Hanover in an extra heat which was necessary to decide the issue. Tracy Hanover defeated Lee Hanover and Lillie Part, other heat winners in the three-year old pacing jamboree.

Angel Child accounted for the 2:11 trot in straight heats. She was driven by O. H. Erskine. Theo Guy captured the 2:18 pace in a straight-heat victory.

RYBA IN FORM

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30.—Another comparatively quiet day faced American Association teams with only two games scheduled for today. Columbus will meet Toledo while St. Paul clashes with Minneapolis.

The Flock and Mudhens were the only teams which played yesterday, the Red Birds taking a 2 to 0 decision in the first of a twin bill while rain stopped hostilities at the end of the fifth in the nightcap with the score tied, 1 to 1.

Mike Ryba, recently acquired by the St. Louis Cards, stopped the Mudhens in the opener by holding them scoreless after he replaced Mort Cooper at the start of the third inning. The Toledoans

Actress Swoons as Bud Baer Slugs Jack Doyle

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—Handsome Jack Doyle, who arrived in American with a reputation for fighting and singing, can return to his beloved Ireland today with his vocal chords unscathed at least.

Personal appearances and cinema shorts vouch for Jack's tenor voice—but that's all. Buddy Baer, Max's big brother, shattered handsome Jack's boxing ability last night at the Garden by scoring a knockout after 2:38 of battling in the first round. It was another case of a baritone trimming a tenor.

Doyle is dead game but that will not preserve his beauty. He wasn't meeting in Baer a donato who goes down under invisible punches he was up against a 238½ pound giant with a concrete lined and a knockout punch in each hand.

It was apparent at the outset that Doyle wouldn't survive the opening round. Buddy's booming right thudded against Doyle's thigh. Jack did a "Phil Scott" in his own corner. But he got up quickly when he discovered Referee Billy Cavanaugh picking up the time-keeper's count.

After a few exchanges, Baer drove Jack to the ropes with a flurry of punches and flattened him with a long right to the jaw. Doyle bounded to his feet but Buddy cornered him again. A right and a left floored Doyle for five. It didn't seem possible that he'd arise but he did. Hardly able to raise his hands, Jack walked toward Buddy who nailed him with a left and was prepared to finish him with a right when Referee Cavanaugh intervened.

Judith Allen, Doyle's actress wife, was grief stricken. She sat at the ringside and winced every time Jack got hit. When the finish came she collapsed and had to be carried from the arena.

WALKER VICTOR

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Mickey Walker, ex-welterweight and middleweight champion, is still too good for most of the pugilistic ham-donnies who infest the numerous small clubs in the metropolitan area.

Appearing at the Fort Hamilton army reservation in Brooklyn last night, the once glamorous Mickey knocked out one Thys Menger of Paterson, N. J., in 2:45 of the second round.

Mickey had Menger on the floor early in the first round and put him definitely to sleep in the second stanza with a terrific right to the jaw.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

In pursuance of the order of the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio, we the undersigned Administrators of the Estate of Grace M. Ritz, deceased, will offer for sale at public auction, at the front door of the Court House, in Circleville, Ohio, on Monday, September 9, 1935 at 2:00 o'clock P. M. the following described real estate, situated in the County of Pickaway, State of Ohio, and in the City of Circleville, and further described in five separate tracts as follows:

TRACT NO. 1. Being fifty (50) feet off the east side of Lot No. 53, and sixteen (16) feet off of the west side of Lot No. 52, according to the revised numbering of the lots of said City of Circleville, Ohio. Said premises being located on the south side of East High Street, between Court and Pickaway Streets in said City. On said premises is a two story brick dwelling and other buildings. Said dwelling being known as House No. 135-37, East High Street, in said City. Said premises being appraised at $6000.00, and was the home residence of deceased at her death.

TRACT NO. 2. Being the east one half of Lot No. 139, according to the revised numbering of the lots of said City of Circleville, Ohio, EXCEPTING 33 feet 2 inches off of the west end of said east half of said lot. Said premises being located at the northwest corner of Watt and Pickaway Streets in said city. On said premises is a frame dwelling (for two separate families). Said dwelling is known as House No. 164-166, East Watt Street in said City. Said premises being appraised at $4200.00.

TRACT NO. 3. Being 91 feet off of the south end of Lot No. 18 according to the revised numbering of the lots of said City of Circleville, Ohio. Said premises being located on the north side of west High Street, between Court and Scioto Streets. The frame dwelling on said premises is known as House No. 126, West High Street, in said City. Said premises appraised at $3000.00.

TRACT NO. 4. Being the northeast portion of Lot. No. 18, according to the new and revised numbering of the lots of said City of Circleville, Ohio; said portion of said lot being described as follows: Beginning at a point in the south line of West Water Street, at the northeast corner of said lot, and at the northwest corner of Lot No. 19, now owned by Mary Miller Kuhns; thence southerly with the East line of said lot No. 18, a distance of 91 feet and 6 inches to a point in said line, being the northeast corner of the tract herein described as Tract No. 3; thence westerly on a line parallel with the north line of West High Street for a distance of 34 feet and 4 inches to a point, the southeast corner of that part of said Lot No. 18 now owned by O. S. Howard; thence northerly, with the east line of said O. S. Howard to a point in the south line of West Water Street, the northeast corner of said O. S. Howard; thence easterly with the south line of West Water Street 34 feet 6 inches to the place of beginning. Said premises being located on the south side of West Water Street, between Court and Scioto Streets, in said City. The frame dwelling on said premises fronts on West Water Street and is now numbered as House No. 121 West Water Street in said City. Said premises being appraised at $1200.00.

TRACT NO. 5. Being Lot No. 25 according to the revised numbering of the lots of said City of Circleville, Ohio; EXCEPTING THEREFROM 12 feet off of the north end of said lot, also EXCEPTING THEREFROM 94½ feet off of the south end of said lot, leaving 45 feet more or less of said lot No. 25 owned by said Grace M. Ritz, and is near, and a portion of, the middle portion of said lot. Said Lot No. 25 extends from East High Street northerly to East Water Street, and is located on the west side of the broad alley known as Palm Alley. Said Palm Aley extends from East High Street to East Water Street and is the first broad alley east of Court Street and parallels said Court Street. On said premises is a frame dwelling, fronting on said Palm Alley and is known as House No. (number not legible.) Said premises appraised at $800.00.

Each tract must be sold for not less than two thirds of its appraised value. Terms of sale, Cash in hand.

Any person interested in the purchase of any of said properties, can look through same by phoning either of said Administrators, who will arrange appointment, for that purpose.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

MASTERING BRIDGE (19)

THE VARIOUS sound reasons for making opening bids upon minimum strength, as either dealer or second hand (to show better than average defensive strength, whether it is concentrated chiefly in a suit or divided among at least three suits, to encourage partner's bidding, to minimize opposing no trumps and to disclose the best defense against them), vanish after partner has passed and your opportunity to bid reaches you either third or four hand.

The above remarks apply with followers of the usual occidental type of game commonly favored in this part of the world, and best adapted to our general trend of thought. Some 20 years ago, as previously mentioned, Mr. Whitehead for a time proposed the oriental type of game, which included passing powerful hands as dealer or second hand, and making light opening bids as third or fourth hand, to provide for cases where partner had not opened with powerful hands. After long trial of such bidding all of us abandoned it as less efficient than regulation tactics. Like psychic bids and other deceptive tactics, large gains came only through unexpectedness.

Nearly all players flatter themselves upon their psychological ability, but few players really possess marked talent that way. The majority of them deceive partner more seriously than they do opponents. The best card psychologist I know is not an especially expert bidder or player, but his instinctive ability to make baffling bids and plays when time and opponents favor such tactics, make him a dangerous foe for any expert.

For general purposes, the best rules for opening bidding third or fourth hand are: If strong in both major suits, open upon two and one-half quick tricks and five probable tricks; if weak in one major suit, do not open upon less than three quick tricks and five probable tricks; if weak in both major suits, do not open without three and one-half quick tricks and five probable tricks. Quick trick strength should increase as major suit strength diminishes. Unless partner is hopelessly weak the third or fourth hand opener should possess probable ability to outbid opponents or be able to prevent them from scoring game. The following hands are minimum openers for positions beyond second hand.

	♠ K Q J 6 ♥ A Q J 4	♦ 8 5 ♣ 7 6 2
♠ A K J 6 ♥ 8 5		♦ 7 6 2 ♣ K Q J 6
♠ 8 5 ♥ 7 6 2		♦ A K J 6 ♣ A Q 9 6
	♠ K 10 7 2 ♥ 9 5 3 ♦ J 3 2 ♣ K 10 6
♠ J 9 8 6 5 3 ♥ 10 6 2 ♦ K Q 6 ♣ 8	N. W. E. S.	♠ 4 ♥ 7 ♦ 8 7 5 4 ♣ Q 9 7 5 4 3 2
	♠ A Q ♥ A K Q J 8 4 ♦ A 10 9 ♣ A J

Hearts are trumps. The opening lead is the K of diamonds. Before tomorrow see whether or not declarer can squeeze for a grand slam. He both bid and made a small slam.
